Thank You Card

Dear wonderful parent,
Thanks for being so nice and ultra-cool and generous, and for caring enough that you don't want me playing games that have all kinds of blood and stuff. So, if you want to get me Interplay's SNES game "Clay Fighter" (no blood and stuff, but lots of laughs) for the holidays, that would be OK with me. Did I say you were awesome, too?
Your loving kid

APRIL '94
Issue 13

COVER STORY

Mario's vicious alter-ego, Wario, makes his Super NES debut in the latest game in the Mario series.

MARIO & WARIO

.....p14

Put on your anti-spinout glasses as you turn to the official NMS psycho-delic pages and discover a Mario game with a difference. (No, it's not an 'edutainment' game!)

ALFRED CHICKEN

.....p18

Let's eat chicken tonight, chicken tonight! The latest game from this Kentucky Fried reject lives up to the considerable reputation of it's lowlier predecessors. Whaddawesay? Cook-a-doodle-doo!

YOUNG MERLIN .....p22

Something different in the RPG mode with this graphically impressive account of a young boy's search for his old mother's shawl, that she'd lost while out foraging for scraps with the family pigs.

BIO METAL.....p25

A rock-hard shooter with absolutely no originality at all? You've heard it all before, haven't you?

SUPER OFF ROAD - THE BAJA.....p26

Does anybody out there know what the Baja is? No? OK, well it's this great big desert, right? And you know how deserts are renowned for the vast variety of scenery - well, that's where this game is set.

T2 - THE ARCADE GAME .....p44

Put on your dark glasses and SHOOT!

BATTLECLASH.....p45

The Nintendo Scope has a lot to answer for.

CHAMPIONSHIP POOL

.....p46

An Olympic swimming events cart that shows a surprising amount of playability and addictiveness. What? Oh, that's next month - this is a pool game. You know, like snooker.

SUPER NES REVIEWS

NES REVIEWS

KABUKI QUANTUM FIGHTER .....p20

From the depths of the NES vault comes this reissued 'Tron'-style platformer. Well, it would be 'Tron'-style if it weren't for the rivers and the ladders and stuff.

GAME BOY REVIEWS

POPEYE.....p42

If yer eats yer spinach, yer'll get strong likes Popeye the sailor man. And if yer eats yer spinach yer might be able to finish this game, too.

BART & THE BEANSTALK.....p49

El Barto Simpson returns to the Game Boy with a brand new adventure - but is it a five donut game? You'll have to read the review to find out!

DEPARTMENTS

NINTENDO NEWS NETWORK.....p6

An exclusive interview with Nintendo Australia's head honcho, NMS top ten games of all time, a totally thrilling competition (thrill, thrill) and quite a bit of news from around the globe.

MAILBAG.....p50

At last, an issue without a letter from Ogre. Yep, Fat Boy deliberately wouldn't answer his latest diatribe. Har-ooo!

Q&A.....p52

Gamesmaster extraordinaire, Skull, scratches his hirsute dome and wonders why lots of baboons like writing to him.

TIPS AND TACTICS.....p54

Cor! more cheats than a room full of politicians!

SUPER BOMBERMAN PLAYERS GUIDE.....p58

Actually, more like the complete guide to Bomberman codes.

SUPER MARIO BROS 1 PLAYERS GUIDE.....p60

A NES classic revisited for all those people out there who still can't finish it.

SUPER MARIO BROS 2 PLAYERS GUIDE.....p61

A bit like the one for Super Mario Bros 1.

SUPER MARIO BROS 3 PLAYERS GUIDE.....p62

So's this one.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO US!

Yes, indeedie, Your favourite video gaming magazine has turned the ripe old age of one! The good ship NMS, and all who have sailed on her, are now even cooler than when it was none!!!

Seriously, in this past year of heartache, misfortune, sweat, blood, tears, repetitive strain syndrome and occasional disputes over the relative abilities of the fabled NMS staff, we have never lost sight of what it takes to bring Australia's only 100% dedicated Nintendo magazine and undeniably greatest gaming magazine. And that is a fearless commitment to telling like it is (NMS has lost more than one advertiser by refusing to budge on our reviews - if we think a game is rubbish, we'll say so!); a sick sense of humour; sticking by all Nintendo users, not just Super NES owners; breaking the hard stories first; having tonnes of fun, and leading the fight against video game censorship and adult ignorance. Oh, and enjoying a good lunch.

Naturally, you can expect NMS to continue to maintain these high standards (There are none higher!) and then some. In the meantime, read on and Feel The Power!
Fat Boy

BOMBERMAN 2

As any regular reader of NMS will tell you, one of our favourite games is Super Bomberman. Now, the news you've all been waiting for - there is a Super Bomberman 2! Like the original, it's a conversion of the PC Engine game which itself was an adaption of the arcade game Dyna Blasters. Bomberman 2 has a multitude of new items to pick up, such as magnets and new types of bombs, as well as different stages to do battle in. Bomberman 2 will hopefully be making its way down under later this year, but no distributor has yet signed it up.

CYBERDYNE GOES MICRO-TECH!

Reviewed this ish on the Super NES, T2: The Arcade Game has also been converted to the Game Boy. Taking up a measly one meg, this shrunken version manages to incorporate most of the features of its big brothers. Obviously, there isn't any gun to shoot at the screen with but, as the Game Boy has such a small screen, moving your target sights around isn't as frustrating as you might think.

PSYKOSONIK SOUNDTRACK

Following the, ahem, success of using pop group 2 Unlimited for the soundtrack to Bio Metal, Activision have followed up by contracting Minneapolis techno outfit, Psykasonik, to play on the new game, X-Kaliber 2097.

The game, which features five of the group's techno hits, including "Silicon Jesus", is a cyber-sword slashin' type of an affair. Set in New York in the year 2097, the hero, Slash, has to battle mutant morphs and an evil boss, Raptor, in an attempt to rid the world of an inter-dimensional terrorist group over six worlds and 21 levels. His weapon, a powerful X-Kaliber sword. Sounds suspiciously like a cyber-version of the Knights of the Round Table, doesn't it? Find out next month in the pages of NMS; In the meantime, here are a few lovely screen shots for you to have a look at.

NINTENDO POWER

Have you ever wondered exactly how much money you are putting into Nintendo's pockets? Well, even if you haven't, NMS is going to tell you.

Nintendo's gross worldwide revenues for 1993 were a piddling seven billion buckeroonies ($AUS). Sales of Nintendo hardware, including the NES, were up worldwide and, in the USA, the humble 8-bit-er also increased it's sales over the previous year! There are now over 100 million Nintendo consoles throughout the world.

In Australia last year, gross revenues exceeded 200 million dollars and the outlook follows the worldwide trend of 10-20% projected growth in 1994.

Meanwhile the great Nintendo versus Sega market share debate rages on. While Nintendo dominate the video game market worldwide, Sega are claiming that they have sold more 16-bit consoles. Nintendo deny that the Megadrive has outsold the Super NES and counterclaim that the market is split 50/50 between the two. But while Nintendo is continuing its incredible growth, latest reports indicate that all is not well at Japan's Sega Enterprises, with an expected drop of 24% in its pre-tax profit over the last year. This will be the first drop in profits that Sega have suffered in 12 years. One thing can be sure, the battle ain't over yet with Nintendo expecting it's 64-bit Project Reality console to steamroll everything in its path, including Sega's yet-to-be-released Saturn 32-bit console, after it's scheduled mid-1995 release.

RISC-Y BUSINESS

More on Nintendo's Project Reality console: Electronics giants Toshiba, NEC and Sharp have been contracted by Nintendo to supply it with millions of the RISC (Reduced Instruction Set Code) chips that

- RELEASE: JUNE
- SUPER NES

The latest in the ever-popular range of game enhancers to make its way into NMS' hands is the GameMage, a converter that boasts features not found on the Game Genie or Action Replay. Its biggest drawcard is a built-in library of codes that negate the need to manually enter codes each time you want to tamper around with the parameters of your favourite game. That is, if your fave game has codes already built in. If not, don't fret, as you can still make up your own codes and there will be update ram cards available which will add hundreds of codes for newly released games.

Yes, Virginia, you have turned into a fireball!

NMS has had a brief play around with the GameMage and we can report that our initial impressions are promising, as have been reports from Europe. We found some really cool effects with the original SFII, as you can see from the pics. If the distributor, Shadow Software, can keep up a constant supply of new codes and update ram cards, the future of the Game Mage looks good, despite fierce competition from Datel's Action Replay MkII.

To give you an idea of the relative merits of the three major enhancers available, check out the table below. Naturally, NMS will bring a complete review on the GameMage real soon!

Item	GMage	GGenie	ARMkII
1. Built-in code library	Yes	No	No
2. Auto-load code sets	Yes	No	No
3. Max codes sets in game	8	5	100
4. Play NTSC or Famicom games on PAL Super NES	Yes	No	Yes
5. Play security 'NTSC Only' games	Yes	No	Yes
6. Play FX/DSP chip	Yes	No	Yes
7. Won't erase records in game cartridge	Yes	No	No

10. Shows code and description	Yes	No	No
11. Has upgrade option	Yes	No	No
12. Enable/Disable code during play	No	Yes	Yes
13. Auto scan/search for codes	No	No	Yes

MORE NEO-GEO CONVERSIONS!

Takara are busy converting two new Neo-Geo arcade beat-'em-ups to the Super NES - Fatal Fury Special and Samurai Spirits!

Fatal Fury Special is a reworked version of the original, with no less than 14 fighters to pick from and dozens of new hidden moves. The latest inclusion to the Fatal Fury saga is special moves that can only be performed when your fighter is down to his/her last grain of strength, therefore allowing amazing comebacks to be pulled off just as all seems lost. Let's hope that Takara do a better job than that performed on the very sad original Super NES conversion.

Samurai Spirits is probably Neo-Geo's best attempt at stealing the crown of best beat-'em-up from SFII. It features 12 warriors, each armed with a variety of weapons favoured by their particular martial art, as well as the mandatory special moves. The graphics are nothing short of stunning, the background being among the best we've seen in just about any type of game. These two games will be slicing their way onto Super NES' later this year and, of course, NMS will keep you informed of Takara's progress.

SHINY BALLS

Last month we had a question in Q&A regarding the lack of pinball games on the Super NES. Well, since then we have uncovered a new game in development in Japan by Meldac/KAZE, and it looks stunning! The game, entitled Super Pinball: Behind The Mask, features three tables of graphical trickery and has loads of neat touches such as taunts from the 'masters' of each table; the Jolly Joker, Black Beard and The Wizard.

Currently, there is no news of any release outside of Japan, but should this great looking game become available to any Australian distributor, NMS will be sure to tell you.

NEW STUNT RACE FX PICS!

Just thought you'd like to drool over these latest pics of the most anticipated Super NES game this year! Take a good look, kids. You'll be playing it very soon!

New, detailed backgrounds are the most obvious new features in these Stunt Race FX pics.

WELCOME TO YOUR DOOM!

The PC game Doom, despite our suggestions to the contrary last month, is being converted to the Super NES! Doom is the sequel to the immensely popular and successful Wolfenstein 3D, which was released on Super NES format a couple of months ago. It is set on the Mars moon of Phobos and puts you up against a horde of hideously mutated alien freaks. Actually, a horde is an understatement, as there are literally thousands of enemies to wade through and all of them possess intelligence greater than just about any video game enemy you care to mention.

Look out for a Doom preview in next month's NMS, if we can get Andrew to stop playing it on his PC and start writing about it!

will lay at the heart of the new 64-bit, 3D console. The contracts, along with positive news from co-developers Silicon Graphics, indicate that development of the new console is well under way.

Silicon Graphics have released a statement that they are confident of achieving all of the specifications that Nintendo demanded of the new console by adapting their MIPS Multimedia engine, a device currently undergoing testing in the USA for use as a part of the Time-Warner group's projected cable-games network. All of which raises questions about Nintendo's preparedness to enter the cable market. Right now, it looks good.

COMPETITION WINNERS

FOUR PLAY COMPETITION

What goes BANG in the night? Well, most of you tried to be funny and gave unprintable answers, but originality counts, so the winners of the fine Sony stash are...

Nintendo of Australia's Joint Managing Director, Graham Kerry, recently took the time to answer a few of NMS' questions about Nintendo's plans for the rest of 1994. He used the occasion to reveal some excellent news for everyone (and we do mean, everyone) who has been waiting for the release of Stunt Race FX and Starwing II FX. Read on!

NMS: Now that Nintendo have set-up office in Australia instead of being looked after by a third party distributor, what difference will it make to the average N-Head?

Graham Kerry: Well, there will be a visual difference at the retail level as Nintendo will take a more coordinated stand that the consumer will notice from the middle of the year or so. But the most important thing will be that, for Nintendo releases, not the third party titles, the advantage of having a Nintendo affiliate in Australia instead of being handled through a distributor, is that there can be simultaneous worldwide releases of software and hardware. Australia should be only one month behind the US release.

NMS: Will this make any difference in price?

GK: Yes. Last year and the first half of this year has seen the price of the NES hardware and software come down, as it has for the Game Boy. You should have also noticed Super Nintendo prices coming down from February this year. The Super NES console, it should be around about $50 cheaper for the Mario All Stars bundle pack, for instance.

NMS: What about the games?

GK: Oh, we're looking at all Nintendo-owned Super NES software coming in at less than $100. The software that you used to pay $99.95 for should now cost around $79.95, and the software that you used to pay over $100 for should now cost around $99.95. Of course, that doesn't apply to the the games that come with a mouse, such as MarioPaint.

NMS: Will the lower prices include FX chip games like Starwing II and Stunt Race FX?

GK: Yes, yes, it will.

NMS: That's brilliant news!

GK: I thought you might like it.

NMS: Have you seen the updated version of Stunt Race FX?

GK: Yes, I have and it looks fabulous. I've seen most of the game and it is very, very impressive. Nintendo's decision to hold it back and further upgrade the game has made it a very hot game, indeed. It's now due to arrive in Australia in June/July.

NMS: One problem that our readers keep asking about is the lack of new NES and Game Boy games.

GK: Well, you will see that change a bit this year. We see both formats as being important to the overall growth of Nintendo so you will see new titles being developed and released for the NES and the Game Boy throughout the year.

NMS: How many?

GK: There won't be as many NES titles released as in it's heyday, but there will be enough new games to keep the NES. Already, the new NES Open Golf is selling well and there are more new games due out by June. We're planning on having the new model NES console out in the market by around June so we're definitely not out of the NES market.

As far as the Game Boy goes, it has been a phenomenal worldwide success and now, with the news that Atari have pulled out of producing the Lynx and it's rumoured Sega are moving away from the Game Gear, the Game Boy is set to be bigger and better than ever.

NMS: What about all those rumours of a colour Game Boy?

GK: There will definitely be no colour Game Boy. I mean, the LCD screen has proven to be the market winner - why would you want to change that? It's cheaper to produce and therefore cheaper to buy, and it has a much lower battery usage than the colour handhelds, and being half the size and weight, the Game Boy is really the only true portable available. At the end of the day, the quality and quantity of good games is the key strength for Game Boy.

NMS: The news that everyone is waiting for is about the new Nintendo Project Reality 64-bit, 3D console. Is it still running on schedule?

GK: Yes, at this stage Nintendo envisage an initial launch of the arcade version later this year and the home console by next year, and by all accounts, it should still cost US$250.

NMS: Have you heard any new details about Project Reality?

GK: Well, it will definitely be a cartridge-based system, but using a totally new technology to manufacture the games. It will not be a CD system, although it will have the capability of being hooked up to a CD system just in case that becomes a viable option in the future.

The reason that it will be a cartridge system is that information transfer rates are immensely faster with this new cartridge technology compared with a CD, which, ultimately, means we can design better games.

NMS: The big news is the video game censorship debate. With the new classification system due to come into force around April/May this year, what do you think the major effects will be?

GK: Let me just say that Nintendo never has, nor ever will, produced a game that is R-rated or X-rated. That will never happen.

As to how the new classifications will effect us, I'd say they may be a minor inconvenience in that we will have to label all the games but, apart from that, they should actually help everyone in their purchasing decisions. After all, when it comes down to it, it's the gift purchasers and game players that buy the games and any information that will help them with their decisions has to be good.

NMS: Last question. Do you make everyone at Nintendo wear blue overalls and a red hat?

ROD

1. STREET FIGHTER II TURBO (Super NES)
Beat 'em up perfection, no less.
2. SUPER MARIO KART (Super NES)

Thrills, spills and excellent controls put it into a class of its own.

3. STARWING (Super NES)
An awesome 3D blaster with brilliant graphics and better gameplay.

4. NBA JAM (Super NES)

As a four-player, you can't go past these top notch arcade conversion.

5. SHADOWRUN (Super NES)
The only truly cyberpunk game.

6. F1 RACE (Game Boy)

The perfect commuting game. It also demands excellent driving skills.

7. SUPER MARIO LAND 2 (Game Boy)

OK, it's easy - it's also a lot of fun and doesn't ruin your eyes!

8. TECMO NBA BASKETBALL (Super NES)

A two player tour de force that requires a lot of strategy combined with blatant opportunism - just like the real thing!

9. SPINDIZZY WORLDS (Super NES)

Puzzle heaven, ahoy!

10. JURASSIC PARK (Super NES)

Megadrive owners must be tearing their hair out at the sheer brilliance of this 3D adventure compared to their boring old platform game.

JANE

1. SUPER MARIO KART (Super NES)

Consistently the most played game at home. Ruddy fabulous!

2. NBA JAM (Super NES)

It's the jam that makes the woman.

3. STARWING (Super NES)

Blast-a-rama that is totally wild. Wicked bosses.

4. STREET FIGHTER II TURBO (Super NES)

This game has such an amazing amount of depth that you'll be playing it for years.

5. TETRIS (Game Boy)

No other Game Boy cart comes close to it.

6. PGA TOUR GOLF (Super NES)

I like golf, OK?

7. ZELDA - LINK'S AWAKENING (Game Boy)

At last, a real RPG for the Game Boy.

8. SUPER TENNIS (Super NES)

So, sue me! I like tennis, too.

9. ALIEN 3 (Game Boy)

Intense.

10. ZOMBIES (Super NES)

More laughs than a cemetery full of one-legged clowns.

NMS TOP TEN GAMES OF ALL TIME!

What a great idea, huh? Celebrate our first birthday by using the combined gameplaying brilliance of the NMS critics to come up with up the definitive Top Ten Nintendo games of all time. Unfortunately, as is usually the case when video game geni are asked to co-operate with each other, the debate quickly degenerated into a bitter shouting match with everyone accusing each other of having ten left thumbs and being unable to recognise a decent game if it came up and bit them on the bum. By the time Fat Boy stormed out after a 48 minute speech during which he called upon the international gameplaying community to support his petition for a wage rise, and demanded additional penalty rates for every stupid letter he had to answer, it was obvious that an official NMS Top Ten was a stupid idea.

So, here is the Official NMS Individual Reviewers Top Ten. A much better idea.

AMOS

1. STARWING (Super NES)

Fast and intensive blastfest. Why the leader of the universe's most feared armada is shaggy ape-in-a-box is beyond me, though.

2. STREET FIGHTER II TURBO (Super NES)

Never fails to kick my bloodlust into overdrive. The two-player mode that really satisfies...

When you win!

3. ALIEN 3 (Super NES)

Get away from her, you bitch! Oops, wrong sequel. I say that to anyone trying to borrow my cart, though.

4. SUPER BOMBERMAN (Super NES)

Brilliant four-player powerzone. Have some laughs, blow up all your friends. And then lose them.

5. POCKY & ROCKY (Super NES)

Mega-tough shooter in refreshing non-platform view, thank God! Fact: Pocky is the most underrated sex symbol on the Super NES.

6. CYBERNATOR (Super NES)

I grew up watching Robotech. Why do I like this game so much?

7. SUPER STAR WARS (Super NES)

Destroying the Death Star instills a euphoric high in your system. What more do you want from a game?

8. NBA JAM (Super NES)

Ooooooh... This game is soooo good, I developed a rather nasty callous after playing. Eeuuuuw!

9. ANOTHER WORLD (Super NES)

Has the best soundtrack ever - no generic tunes here! Spleen-rupturing frustration levels have been experienced during play... But it's worth it!

10. JURASSIC PARK (Super NES)

Getting lost in the Raptor Pen gave me a rising sense of panic not experienced since being locked in the loo back at primary school!

ANDREW

1. STREET FIGHTER II TURBO (Super NES)

This is a very good game. I like it very much.

2. SUPER MARIO KART (Super NES)

The best racing game I've played on any home system!

3. JOHN MADEEN

FOOTBALL '94 (Super NES)

There's nothing quite like a good game of gridiron.

4. SUPER TENNIS (Super NES)

Two-player tension at its best!

5. SUPER MARIO WORLD (Super NES)

The first platform game for the Super NES is still my favourite. No one can beat Mario!

6. NBA JAM (Super NES)

Four-player fun. Get that? FUN!

7. SHADOWRUN (Super NES)

A classy RPG.

8. JURASSIC PARK (Super NES)

A prehistoric safari on the Super NES.

9. PARODIUS (Super NES)

Like, hey man, this is wild!

10. REVENGE OF THE GATOR (Game Boy)

Portable pinball, with funky little 'gators!

JAMES

1. WAYNE'S WORLD (Super NES)

Only kidding. Obviously it has to be Street Fighter II Turbo, doesn't it?

2. TETRIS (Game Boy)

The perfect game - simple, and devilishly frustrating.

3. PARODIUS (Super NES)

A rock-hard shooter with a wicked sense of humour!

4. SUPER MARIO WORLD (Super NES)

The ultimate platform game? Hmm... certainly the most entertaining.

5. NBA JAM (Super NES)

More fun than picking your girlfriend's pimples!

6. STARWING (Super NES)

A glimpse of the future of video games. Ya-hoo!

7. BOXING LEGENDS OF THE RING (Super NES)

A bruising game that is quite subtle in its strategy.

8. SUPER BOMBERMAN (Super NES)

All the attractive simplicity of Tetris combined with blowing people up - brilliant!

9. PUGSLEY'S SCAVENGER HUNT (Super NES)

A bloody hard platform that is graphically superb. More fun than Prince of Persia, too.

10. SUPER MARIO KART (Super NES)

Totally addictive racing with all the charm of the Mario games

SKULL

1. STREET FIGHTER II TURBO (Super NES)

One of few fighting games that actually requires skill. Definite satisfaction.

2. SMASH TV (Super NES)

Mindless violence ahoy!

3. SUPER PROBOTECTOR

(Contra 3) (Super NES)

Bang! Boom! Shoot! Destroy! Die alien scum!

4. SUPER MARIO KART (Super NES)

Beating someone in Battle Mode gives you such a good feeling!

5. WOLFENSTEIN 3D (Super NES)

Why aren't there more games like this?

6. LEGEND OF THE MYSTICAL NINJA

An excellent combination of action and adventure, with a perfect atmosphere.

7. BART'S NIGHTMARE (Super NES)

The best Simpsons game yet - it even has chutney squishys in it. Mmmmm... Chutney squishys!

8. NBA JAM (Super NES)

This is what real basketball should be like. No rules!

9. ZOMBIES (Super NES)

This game will turn you into a zombie, and that's good!

10. SHADOWRUN (Super NES)

The graphics could have been better, but hey, it's a great quest.

MICHAEL

1. STREET FIGHTER II TURBO (Super NES)

I love it. You love it. We all love it. What else is there to say?

2. F-ZERO (Super NES)

Fast and furious racing action that leaves my internal organs behind.

3. TETRIS (All formats)

The simple things in life are often the best.

4. SUPER MARIO KART (Super NES)

Who could resist Mario and his cute little friends?

5. SIMCITY (Super NES)

I've always wanted to be king (or at least a mayor) for a day.

6. ELITE (NES)

Nothing beats this space-based game in terms of depth and excitement.

7. SUPER BOMBERMAN (Super NES)

At the moment, it is the penultimate in multiplayer mayhem.

8. ZELDA series (All formats)

The only definitive RPG for all Nintendo formats.

9. SHADOWRUN (Super NES)

Oh, and this one as well.

WIN

That's right, it might be NMS' birthday but the pressies are all for you, dear reader. To celebrate this momentous occasion, NMS has teamed up with Metro Games and the radical new Channel Nine video games show, The Zone, to bring you the chance to fly overseas to tour Ocean and Interplay, two of the most happening software development companies around.

NMS

Metro
GAMES

Happy Birthday to YOU!

Clayfighter is one of the most original beat 'em ups ever seen, with its range of extremely flipped out characters, including a convincing Elvis impersonator, and excellent speech samples. Oddly enough, the emphasis here is on having fun though there are enough special moves and individual characteristics to master to keep the most ardent beat 'em up fan happy. Look out for the full NMS review just as soon as we can drag Clayfighter away from Amos for long enough for him to actually write the review!

The Zone is Australia's first TV show dedicated solely to video gaming - and about time, too! Screening from April 9 on Saturday mornings on Nine Network, The Zone will bring you all the guff on the world of video gaming with the help of experts like NMS' very own gaming wizards, Rod and Amos (The Zone would be a very sad show without them) so, naturally, The Zone will take no prisoners in its search for gaming excellence - and, as you can see, watching The Zone is the part of this truly wicked competition that you will enjoy almost as much as reading NMS. Don't miss it!

THE PRIZES

1st Prize: Win a trip overseas for two to visit the powerhouse software companies, Ocean and Interplay, plus a Super NES Programpad 2 joypad by QJ and a Super NES game from Metro Games.

2nd-5th prizes: Win a Super NES Programpad 2 joypad by QJ and a Super NES game from Metro Games. The Programpad 2 joypad, also supplied by Metro Games, features 66 pre-programmed moves, six spaces to program your own moves, auto-fire, slo/mo and heaps of other features that will make the average gamer dribble like a gibbon.

HOW TO ENTER

1. Buy a copy of the brilliant new Clayfighter Super NES game and cut the barcode from the packet.
2. Watch The Zone, Saturday 9, 16, 23, 30 April on Ch.9 and collect the secret passwords.
3. Fill out the coupon on this page and send it, along with the barcode from the Clayfighter game box and the passwords from The Zone to the address on the coupon.

Flights and accommodation are subject to availability and must be taken before end November 1994.

Send this coupon to Clayfighter, Ahoy! Competition, NMS, PO Box A305, Sydney South NSW 2000. Don't forget to include the barcode from the Clayfighter box and the secret passwords from The Zone!

That dastardly Wario, he's a wily one alright. Once again he's come up with a dastardly plot to destroy his arch-enemy, Mario. After saving up all his pocket money since Marioland 2, Wario rushed out to buy himself an old one-man propeller bomber and a selection of devices to drop upon our favourite plumber. Yes, pipes, dinosaur eggs, buckets - you name it, Wario's going to drop it on Mario's head.

The logic behind this stems from Wario's obsession with killing Mario by means of hazard-filled platform levels. Y'see, he had quite a few of these left over from his last game, and it seemed a shame to waste them. However, knowing Mario's own platform fixation, Wario thought it would be a good idea to even the odds by blinding the plucky plumber - not by use of a soldering iron or anything, but by dropping an object over his head which would hopefully become lodged and immovable. Anyway, there's still hope for Mario. His platform expert bro' Luigi has infiltrated each of the hazardous levels and is waiting at the end - ready to free Mario's head. Quite why he doesn't wait at the beginning of the level is another mystery. However, the biggest help is in the form of a mysterious little fairy armed with a magic wand which can make blocks appear from nowhere, thus allowing Mario to cross otherwise impassable gaps. And so it falls to our winged wonder, whom we shall call Barrio, to save our superherol

KILL YOSHI! I MUST KILL YOSHI!

Actually, whilst Mario is Wario's prime target, being a master of evil and crinkle-cut moustaches he isn't really that bothered who he bumps off. Ergo, at the beginning of each level you're given the choice between Mario, the Princess or Yoshi getting it on the bonce. Each character moves at a different speed, with the high-heeled Princess the slowest character and professional people-carrying slave to the masses the speediest. The faster the character moves, the harder the game is, with the player having less time to react to each situation.

▲ I can see I'm going to have to come up with a least one joke about a guy walking round with his head in a bucket. But what will it be? Hmm.

REVIEW

SUPER NINTENDO ENTERTAINMENT SYSTEM

▲ Skill is needed in the pipe-heading sub-game

COMMENT

If Nintendo were hoping to sell their Mouse on the back of this title, they are going to be a little disappointed. For while the whole package looks, sounds and plays brilliantly, there is something about the game that leaves you wanting more.

ANDY

Perhaps it's something to do with the fact that for the first few levels the puzzles are so tediously easy that it's difficult to maintain any interest. Things do improve, but in the harder later levels the real battle is between you and the mouse as opposed to against the game. Another thing - seeing as this is a Mario spin-off it is really a good idea that we only ever see him with a bucket over his head. If you're looking for a good excuse to get the mouse, take a look at the great King Aurthurs World and use this as a follow up. Not bad but not brill.

STAR-AR, THAT'S WHAT THEY CALL YOU

Some levels contain four weeny little stars which, when collected together, grant Mario an extra life. However, they're always scattered across the four corners of the stage, meaning Mario has to traipse all over the shop and generally negotiate a load of extra puzzles in order to obtain them. Therefore, whilst completing the stage may be simple enough, completing the stage, nabbing all the stars and doing it all within the strict time limit makes it a whole different situation.

▲ Still no sign of that bucket-on-head gag. Sorry.

MENTAL BLOCKS

This filling in blocks' business isn't as easy as it sounds. For starters, you can't just bung a block anywhere. It's only possible to create a block where there is a Psychic Potential Block Field. Luckily, being a fairy, it's possible for you to see the oft-ignored auras that appear as a white outline. Even then there are loads of different kinds of block to deal with.

REGULAR BLOCK: Click your wand on this field and a block appears and stays there forever.

SMALL BLOCK: Just like the regular block but much smaller, and correspondingly harder to click on in a tight situation.

TEMPORARY BLOCK: The psychic field of these blocks is weak, and so once activated, these blocks last only a few seconds before requiring a top-up of magic.

SMALL TEMPORARY BLOCK: Not the sort of block you like to see, these little fellers are both difficult to activate and only last a short while.

ROCK BLOCK: These blocks are present when the level begins, and need to be smashed up by use of magic to allow Mario to pass through.

COIN BLOCK: Clicking the coin block releases one of the ten coins contained therein. As in all Mario games, collecting one hundred coins earns an extra life.

ENEMIES: Not, strictly speaking, blocks at all. These scary creatures come in a variety of forms, from black spiky spiders to flocks of bats - and each one needs smiting with your wand to save Mario from death.

COMMENT

and adding to Mazza's range of activities, it succeeds brilliantly. However, it does fall down in a couple of ways. For starters, the first four levels are incredibly easy, allowing to breeze pretty much halfway through the game nary losing a life. After this, things get much tougher and the game becomes much more enjoyable, especially if you choose to try and collect all the stars. There's also the problem that, despite how hard it does get later, you've got infinite continues which means it doesn't take too long to get right to the end, and as with all puzzle games of this ilk, once you've completed it there's no reason to play it again. If you've already got the mouse, this is certainly worth a look, but if this is your sole reason for forking out for the plastic rodent you should spare a thought before handing over the readies.

Alfie, do you remember me? So sang sang the Sledge Sisters. Well, Alfie certainly remembers me, oh yes. I'm Greg Chicken, Alfred's best mate from school. I was with him when that talent scout from the agency spotted him and offered him his own Game Boy game. Of course, Game Boy titles are small stuff. I mean, if Hammering Harry can do it, anyone can do it, right? But Alfie was always special, and Game Boy lead to NES, and now all the way to the major league on the Super NES.

He hasn't forgotten his old pals, Alfie. No, he's still the same level-headed rooster he always was. Yeah, maybe he ran for parliament. But hey, that's just his sense of humour, right? Ok, so he had a manifesto entirely based on people giving him money and buying him drinks, and he made his mum drive him round in his campaign van or he's buy her roost and turn her out into the yard, but that's just youthful hi-jinks. And posing with that cheesy Page 3 model? Yeah, well Alfie always was one for the birds. So what if she was pig-ugly by chicken standards? Hey, I bet he was just doing it for fun.

You know what he said to me the other day? "Greg," he said, "get off the damn 'phone, I'm expecting an important call from my financial advisor." Yeah, that's Alfred all right, never too busy to catch up with the word from the old neighbourhood...

ALFRED

ANDY

Alfie Chicken might not be the most original game around but it certainly is one of the more enjoyable. Every aspect of the 8-bit Alfie games has been ported over and given just the right amount of Super NES treatment.

Similarly, the challenge has been upped, too, but not so much that it gets frustrating - if Alfie buys it, it's due to your ineptness and not some unseen death-pits teeming with baddies. In fact, I have rarely taken to a game as quickly as this but I do, however, have a gripe. Despite the size of the game, some of the levels look a bit samey - level six, for instance, looks like a speeded up version of level one. Still, for your money, what you get is a classic platformer with an all-new challenge that is quite huge. Cock-a-doodle-doo!

▲ Get off the abacus feather-breath. We don't hold with your sort 'round these parts...

CHICKEN

▲ Hmm, it seems we're in another one of those baffling magnet/egg/toy car situations.

RAD

I must admit that Alfred Chicken is one of my favourite Game Boy games, but I wasn't too sure how he'd translate to the Super NES. To my pleasant surprise, Mindscape have done a brilliant job. The backgrounds are far more varied and detailed, the graphics are pin-sharp and the use of colour is exceptional. Instead of converting the existing game design, Super NES Alfred has a whole new layout, and it's absolutely huge! There are more levels here than you would believe, and as they start getting tricky after about stage five it should take ages to beat the game. Alfred certainly isn't for everyone, thanks to it's more puzzly bias, although the platform action is tricky enough. But if you think you can handle a bit of cerebral stimulation in with your reflexology, Alfred Chicken is a game you should seriously have a look at.

Alfred stopped dead in his tracks, transfixed. Could that really be Rod appearing on The Zone?

DIE YOU CLUCKERS!

Alfred's abilities are pretty much unchanged in his new outing. He still jumps very high. Keep on pressing the jump button in the air and he'll flap his wings to slow his descent. Pull down whilst falling to go into a deadly beak dive, the only way to kill you enemies. And of course, pulling down whilst standing has Alfred peck at the ground, the only way of releasing those balloons. Mr Peckles is still around, hiding in most levels, but you no longer need to find him to get your claws on the coveted pellet-shooting ability. Simply grab any jam jar and birdseed-firing capabilities are yours until you decide to continue. Despite being very bouncy and prone to ricocheting off the floor, this missile attack is highly useful.

KaBUKi QUANTUM FIGHTER

In the future, world affairs are monitored and controlled by a single supercomputer. Naturally, the computer's mainframe is invaded by a mutated virus and, as is already obvious to anyone who even has a dash of imagination, the world is brought to the brink of global destruction.

But wait - there is hope! An experimental device called the Image Transfer System is at the final stages of its development. All it needs is someone brave, or mad enough, to try it.

Enter Colonel Scott O'Connor, the epitome of truth, justice and unreasoning patriotism. He bravely offers to risk his life and sanity to give the world one slim chance at survival and, before he can change his mind, his mind is transferred into the mainframe. In his new persona, Scott O'Connor is - the Kabuki Quantum Fighter!

FRACTAL FIREPOWER

The heroic colonel has a variety of attacks to help finish each objective. You initially start off with your hair. That's right, the fuzzy stuff that grows on top of your head as well as, ahem, on other parts of your anatomy. Anyway, our brave colonel uses his lanky locks to lash out at his opponents. He also gets a full complement of memory chips to fuel long distance attacks.

As you finish each level, you get another weapon such as fusion guns, Quantum bombs and electronic sticks of dynamites. By using these special weapons, you can hit enemies which are otherwise inaccessible to your normal attacks.

COMIC RELIEF

Between each level, you are presented with an illustrated storyline which informs you of your progress through the computer mainframe. This helps to give this platformer a sense of meaning and direction. It really doesn't affect the game in any way, other than to give you an occasional break from playing.

HUM

BUGS IN THE SYSTEM

Colonel O'Connor is given specific mission objectives in each level, although they are invariably carried out in the same manner. You have a time limit in which to get to the end of each level, if you don't, you lose a life. Of course, you have a vast array of opponents to vanquish in each level, in addition to the life-sapping traps which also must be avoided. In a surprising move, killing these enemies often reveals weapon power-ups and the occasional extra life. Also, predictably enough, you will find an end-of-level boss to confront at the (where else?) end of each level. These characters are particularly nasty and have special attacks that only something of their electronic calibre can pull off. In essence, you have to devise your own tactics to foil them; one of which is to sacrifice memory chips for additional life.

◀ Kabukiman discovers underground springs. He bottles the water, slaps a fancy label on it and makes a million selling it to suckers like Rod and Julia.

◀ She Wing! Go Kabukiman, swing those lanky red drapes!

COMMENT

MICHAEL

If I were to review this game, oh, about five years ago, I would have given it top marks. But technology marches to its own beat, and what a rapid beat it is! Everything about KQF is so mediocre that it is hard to say what is good, or bad, about it. Compared to the vast range of games available on the market, this little piggy is left well behind.

If you are one of those nostalgic people who value everything that belongs to the past, the KQF should give you a pleasant idea of what gaming was like then. If you're looking for something simple to play, something that won't burden you with overcomplicated rules, then this is the game to get. Otherwise, expect another dull platform/shooter.

THE LAY OF THE LAND

I couldn't imagine the insides of a computer looking the way they do in this game. Apparently, there are platforms in which you can walk or jump on. Not to mention ladders and, heaven help us, moving water. This is, perhaps, how Colonel O'Connor perceives his environment. Anyway, you need these structures to get you where you want to go. Also, since you are dealing with a computer virus, you have to watch out for spores left behind by this digitised epidemic. Stay away from these since they either sap your precious energy, or spawn more enemies for you to fight.

It's not often that you take time to consider what it was famous mythological figures got up to when they were nippers. You know, before they got all starry and famous. This is exactly the premise of Virgin's latest RPG offering, Young Merlin. It tells how the boy Merlin awakes one morning to hear a drowning maiden's cries for help. Labouring under the false impression that he might be in with a chance of a snog, he sets off to rescue her. Foolish boy - he hasn't even got his 25 metres certificate yet. When he awakes, still slightly damp, from his own near death experience he finds himself in a land under threat from the sinister Shadow King. Naturally, it falls to our hero to valiantly, though some would say stupidly, take on the might of this evil sorcerer and return the land to its rightful inhabitants. Just the sort of thing any self-respecting adolescent would do, I'm sure. So off he trots, under your guidance, battling against the Shadow King's pesky minions and solving the numerous puzzles. If that's not enough, he even indulges in a spot of mine-carting too. Developers Westwood Studios reckon that they developed Young Merlin for the younger player and have made it almost completely text-free, relying instead on graphic devices to tell the story. We'd better have a butcher's then...

MAGIC POCKETS

That Merlin kid must have big pockets. Either that or he's got rather thin legs. Mindless speculation aside, it's a modern-day marvel how much he manages to cram in there. Here's a breakdown of just a few of the magical items he has secreted about his person:

YOUNG MERLIN

BUBBLE BLOWER:

I mistook it for a magnifying glass at first, but blow bubbles it does - nice ones too. However, the Shadow King's 'meanies' don't look on them as favourably and run a mile whenever you blow one upon them. This comes in especially handy for those of you hoping to visit Pinedale.

COMMENT

TIM

Full marks to Virgin and Westwood for trying something a bit different. The result is an absolutely vast challenge which succeeds on many levels, but falls down in other areas. First of all, don't let the cutesy graphics put you off - this has got to be one of the most challenging titles seen in quite a while. At first glance everything looks incredibly simple, until you realise that there's an awful lot to be done and you're given very, very little help along the way. Merlin, looking exactly as you'd expect, is left to wander around the play area as you try to discover what you're supposed to be doing next. This is entirely deliberate, and when you actually manage to figure out the puzzles the reward is that much greater. However, some of the challenges are simply too tough, and can prove frustrating. To compensate, there's a great deal of humour in the game - mostly timed to arrive when you're least expecting it - and the game hangs together well as a good example of fiendish puzzledom. A good game for people prepared to put in the time and overcome the annoyingly difficult sections, and one which may well inspire other game developers to think bigger. Check it out and decide whether it's right for you.

MAGIC DUST:

This handy item is magic in two ways. Firstly, just a pinch flung in a foe's face renders them frozen, enabling Merlin to get a few sneaky star shots in there first. Secondly, this little bag of dust is as capacious as Merlin's pockets - the stuff never runs out!

BALLOON:

This is one of those helium-filled ones that you play around with for five minutes, then get bored and undo so's you can inhale the gas and make your voice go funny. That's not quite what happens when Merlin inhales his - he turns into a balloon himself and is able to float up to hitherto unreachable areas. Bear this in mind when mining.

IT'S A GEM

If, on his travels, the boy Merlin comes across colourful gems lying around, for gawd's sake don't pass them by. Instead, have YM pick 'em up and chuck them in the nearest special pond - you'd be surprised what benefits this apparently foolish act can reap. In the early stages Merlin receives such goodies as freezing powder and magical bubbles, while in later levels...well, we're not about to ruin that surprise. Don't try this one at home though...

BOTTLE JAR, JAR BOTTLE

Another one we wouldn't recommend you to try at home is drinking from your local pond - you never now what might happen. The same isn't true for Merlin, though. You see, in Merlin's time there was no such thing as acid rain and dogs weren't allowed to poo in ponds so the water was a lot safer to drink and, far from giving you a nasty dose of the squits, this water has some very beneficial properties and is well worth collecting in Merlin's jars and saving for the proper occasion. Clear water restores Merlin's health after a nasty set-to, whilst Blue Water endows our diminutive hero with temporary invincibility.

GIS A KISS, FISH BREATH

Teenage lads, eh! Just out of childhood and all those hormones rushing around with nowhere to go. In other words - lock up your daughters! Or in this case lock up your mermaids - Young Merlin just can't get enough of 'em! This is more than amply demonstrated in the underwater stages where practically every sea cave houses a mermaid for the randy youngster to snog. It's a good job that they're obliging teenage mermaids, though. Merlin relies on their kisses, for without them his oxygen supply soon runs out and the hormonally-challenged lad suffocates. Not good.

COMMENT

Grrr! Some parts of Young Merlin had me biting chunks of masonry out of the walls in sheer frustration. The puzzles involved are not in themselves complex but tend to be rather disjointed - often, just when you think you've completed a task, you find you've got to leg it back all the way to a particular point to chuck a gem in a pond to collect another item then go all the way back again. Ordinarily this isn't a bad thing, but with no text to tell the story and no map to refer to, it's not always clear what it is you're supposed to be doing and where to do it. However, the bulk of the game is pretty good and there are a lot of genuinely funny bits included. I especially liked the little "meanies" who roll over and fart at you, or bite your ankles when you're not looking. All things considered I enjoyed Young Merlin. It doesn't take itself too seriously and does try to include a few different play styles, with varying degrees of success. If you can grit your teeth through the annoying bits and are looking for something a bit original, give this a look.

REVIEW

FOR NINTENDO

ENTERTAINMENT SYSTEM

Blast off and strike the evil Byde empire! This is your mission, and this is, err... hold on, wrong game. Doh!

Oh well, these shooters all have the same plot, anyway. Let's try again.

The year is 232 G.C. (Galactic Century) and an intergalactic war has just ended, leaving a legacy of massive destruction. Obviously, the rebuilding of your side's military fleet comes before aid to civilians and, with the Milky Way's natural resources depleted, a new source of raw materials has to be found. And that source is the planet UP457 which has been designated to be ransacked. The first exploratory mission was unsuccessful, destroyed by unknown aliens. (The evil slime, how dare they defend their home planet!)

Now it's up to you to sort them out so that The Federation can once again rule the Galaxy unopposed! Your ship of death is the new (probably experimental) MF-92GX, and it is armed with a sinister new weapon, a weapon so devastating, it has been banned in 257 solar systems throughout the galaxy. This weapon is... bad techno-pop music! Watch the alien scum run in fear!

GREAT BALLS OF BLUE

As well as the horrid sounds of 2 Unlimited, your ship is equipped with the GAM weapon device. Basically, this GAM thing consists of four blue balls that orbit your ship. These balls can be manipulated to extend out and smash through anything in their path. Naturally, they are indestructible.

However, while the GAM device is in operation, your power supply to it decreases and, when fully exhausted, it needs to be recharged. Once activated, though, the GAM can be turned off to recharge if you don't need it, as it's best used when you are under heavy attack or fighting a boss.

DROP IT RIGHT THERE, PLEASE, MR ALIEN SCUM!

As you would expect of your average shooter, Bio Metal has power-ups to enhance your ship's fire power. The standard weapon is a single straight shot, but with the right power-ups it becomes a triple shooter. There is also a laser which is more powerful, a wave weapon which can fire fore and aft, and homing missiles. The problem is that they are all quite pathetic. Never mind, extra lives are also to be found by shooting the right baddies.

GRAPHICS

- ▲ Level one boss goes trippy at first.
- ▼ But everything is soooo bland. Low detail on sprites and backgrounds and NO variety. Some slow-down, too.

32

SOUND

- ▲ Good to hear the developers using new sources for soundtracks.
- ▼ But why 2 Unlimited?!?! Yeeech! And the sound effects are pathetic.

PLAYABILITY

- ▲ Fast, responsive controls.

There's a lot of money to be made in off-road racing, apparently. Beats anyone where it comes from though. I mean, no-one ever watches it when it's on the TV (usually on exceptionally dull Bank Holiday mornings), no-one pays good money to go and see the "event" live, and heck, no-one even knows the names of any of the drivers. Where do these chaps come from? Where do they go? Do they have a career in off-road, or are they simply actors hired by crap American TV companies to make cheap Wild World of Sports programmes?

Well, now's your chance to find the answers to all these questions with the sequel to the incredibly successful Ivan "Ironman" Stewart's Off-Road Racing (well, alright, some people might know his name). Instead of the tiny cars and overhead view of the first title, Super Off-Road - The Baja is on a behind-the-car view, giant sprites tip, making it more akin to Mario Kart than the jolly little original we know and loathe. But does this make it a better individual? Well, hey, just read this here Review and find out. Yeeha.

BUY THINGS IN A SHOP

Like all good off-road racers, you have nothing better to spend your prize money on than extra bits for your truck (in the game at least). So after every race you are given the opportunity to buy upgrades for your machine in Honest Steppenwolf's Truckerie. Honest buys and sells upgrades, allowing you to trade in upgrades which aren't very useful in the next leg. After the first stage, visits to the Truckerie are taken in real time, meaning shopping costs valuable seconds. The full complement of tasty extras available is listed here.

LIGHTS: With the Baja being a 900 mile off-road trek, there are times when it's going to be dark. Improving the power of your headlights (useful in no-light situations) costs a quite amazing $7000, more than new shocks!

TYRES: Very useful in the grip department, better tyres are all important for the muddier sections of the course. Tyre upgrades costs a whopping $5K each.

BRAKES: Not at all useful really, because you never actually need to hit the brakes during the game. Still, if you want to waste your money each new level of breakage costs $4000.

SHOCKS: Now these are very important as they protect your truck from the damage incurred through rough driving and rougher crashing. One level of shocks sets you back a whopping $6000.

ENGINE: A bigger engine means a faster truck, and so improving your under-bonnet motor is a very good idea indeed. Sadly, though, this is pretty pricey at nine grand per level.

NITROS: You can carry as many nitros as you can afford, and it's quite advisable. Each one allows you a bit of a turbo boost. Although you start the game with 25 it's a safe bet a lot of your cash shall be spent on this nitro investment. One nitro costs $1000.

ANDY

Just like in the original Off Road, this game is quite a laugh for about half an hour. After that, I found several points began to annoy me. For instance, while your car potters along at a moderate pace there is no real feeling of great speed - something I consider essential for any decent racing game. All the nitros seem to do is make an inoffensive popping noise and send your car careening off the track and into into a helpless bystander - the bumpy nature of the track coupled with the jerky scrolling have a similar effect. Also, and this is a feature that it shares with its predecessors, the extras that you spend your hard-earned on don't seem to make much of a difference to the performance of your motor. That said, it's not an appalling game - it has some nice touches, great graphics in spite of their jerkiness and certainly presents a reasonable challenge. But I think it's telling that I spent most of my time trying to find stuff to run over!

IVAN ACE TIP FOR YOU

That nice Ivan Stewart is a lovely man. He doesn't just endorse this game, he's taken a personal hand in the production. Before each leg of the Baja, his cheery face appears offering some helpful advice, although it's generally of the standard of "Go very fast and beat other cars". Not just this though, he also makes his presence felt whenever you pop into the shop, advising you on what to spend your cash on. It's often a good idea to listen to this advice, as being a professional off-road racer Ivan knows what he's talking about. Although the advice is probably just made up by the programmers.

▲ There's loads of room for a good Badger caption, so you'd better think of a funny one Andy," said Dave, hopefully.

DRIVING OVER MISS DAISY

Of course, Mortal Kombat has changed games forever. Now not even a humble racing game is complete without its share of gore and gratuitous death sequences. Indeed, Super Off-Road has plenty to cater for would-be hit-and-run merchants. Occasionally you may see a deer, or better, a person standing by the side of the road. Should you run into them, they die with a horrifying scream. There are also quad bike riders on the course, and slamming into them at high speed dislodges them from their mounts. If you're quick you can even run the driver over while they lie prone on the track. Of course, all this death is morally detestable, so drivers lose between three and ten thousand dollars per kill. Well worth it!

▲ "More Badger jokes I think. You might like to mention voles etc...and maybe my cat Tigger," proffered Dave in vain.

▲ "Okay, how about, look at the badgers on that!" suggested Andy, feebly.

RAD

I must admit I was never particularly enamoured of the original Super Off Road - it was just a bit of a fiddly copy of Super Sprint if you ask me. The sequel, however, is something completely different. It's about time somebody tried something like this on the Super NES, and it certainly makes a change from the regular behind-the-car view racers. Whilst the screen update can be a little jerky, the actual feeling of motion is very realistic. Driving the car is a bit of a seat of the pants affair because the constant hills and bumps make it difficult to see the course ahead of you - and whilst this is part of the games appeal it can be frustrating when the track takes a sudden sharp bend which is invisible to all intents and purposes. It's a pity there's no simultaneous two-player mode, but that would have been impossible due to the size of the graphics and rollingosity of the course, but there's an alternating mode if you're desperate for some human competition. However, whilst Baja is highly enjoyable, it's also quite limited, with the course being much of a muchness throughout the game. Still, there's more than enough to keep race fans happy, and the cart certainly packs a big challenge. Give it a whirl if drive 'em ups are your bag.

8-BIT NES

ADDAMS FAMILY

Quite a jolly little platform game, but the problem is that it offers very little in the way of new or exciting ideas. There are plenty of games of this ilk, so shop around before making a purchasing decision.

Intriguing puzzle game which certainly packs a challenge but doesn't feature much in the way of action or variety. Definitely one for those who like the pace of their games to be sedate.

OVERALL 74%

AIRWOLF

Take control of Stringfellow Hawke's attack helicopter and zip around the skies trashing airborne enemies. There's not a great deal to this game, but the graphics and sound are OK and the gameplay, though not particularly original, should prove enjoyable.

OVERALL 84%

AUSSIE RULES FOOTY

A bare bones sim that does manage to actually capture some of the feel of the real thing. Two player is the go, though.

BAD DUDES

Hopeless conversion of the beat 'em up coin-op better known as Dragon Ninja. Dreadfully flickery graphics and a low challenge level hammer the nails into it's coffin.

OVERALL 39%

BALLOON FIGHT

The aim of Balloon Fight is simplicity itself! Boasting gameplay similar to the classic Joust arcade game, it's your job to fly around the screen descending on enemy sprites and bursting their balloons, while guarding your own from attack. Even though there's simultaneous two-player action, it all grows dull very quickly.

BART VS THE WORLD

A dodgy and bland game. Very poor. Dohl

BARTMAN MEETS RADIOACTIVE MAN (WITH FALLOUT BOY)

One of a long line of dud Simpsons games. Fans only.

BATMAN

The Joker is causing trouble in Gotham City, and there's only one body-stocking wearer who is superhero enough to stop him - Batman. There are 20 platform levels to beat and, though the initial difficulty level is set quite high, the gameplay is addictive enough to keep you coming back. All in all, a first class game.

BATMAN II: RETURN OF THE JOKER

Superb-looking and great-sounding platform game which completely fails to offer anything new and so renders itself redundant in the face of classics like Super Mario III and the Megaman series.

BATMAN RETURNS

Not bad Double Dragon type game which gets better as it goes, but not earth-shattering.

BATTLE OF OLYMPUS

BASEBALL

One of the most popular sports in the United States hits the NES! All of the fun and excitement of baseball is here but, unfortunately, Nintendo Baseball has a number of faults in the gameplay department. The actual pace of the game is relatively slow and a tad unresponsive. The graphics are a cack too. Not recommended.

OVERALL 60%

BAYOU BILLY

Unusual mix of game types which also feature a light gun sequence as you drive, run and shoot your way through a variety of different screens. Fun, but not an essential purchase.

BIONIC COMMANDO

Super Joe Crack, the star of Commando (Capcom's old coin-op hit) has been captured behind enemy lines and only the Bionic Commando can save him by fighting through many platform and shoot 'em up levels. This

BLADES OF STEEL

Don't be misled by the title - this is a Ice Hockey simulation with a mini beat 'em up included when things get rough on the pitch! Multiple skill levels and different options keep things interesting for solo players, but the excitement is at maximum with two players at the controls. Overall, an excellent sports game.

BUBBLE BOBBLE 2

A fun sequel but, despite an increased difficulty level and a few new abilities, the game is too similar to original NES version to appeal to Bubble Bobble fans. However, if you don't have Bubble Bobble or Parasol Stars, take a look at this one.

DAYS OF THUNDER

Jump into your NASCAR racer and burn around a series of tracks with no right turns whatsoever in this NES conversion of the embarrassingly awful Tom Cruise movie. The graphics are OK but there's no real variety in them at all. The game itself is slow, tedious, annoying and frustrating.

DONKEY KONG

Oh nah! Mario's girlfriend has been kidnapped by a crazed gorilla! It's up to the Italian plumber to conquer four different levels of platform action. Donkey Kong isn't a bad coin-op conversion, but the original itself is ancient and four screens of arcade action simply isn't enough to warrant the price tag.

OVERALL 45%

DONKEY KONG JUNIOR

Dankey Kong Junior's out to rescue his dad from Mario's clutches in another four-screen platform romp, this time set in the jungle. Just like its predecessor, Donkey Kong Jr isn't a bad conversion with a bit more variety than the original game. Unfortunately, four screens worth of action just isn't enough to give the player value for money.

OVERALL 84%

DOUBLE DRAGON III

Acclaim's third Double Dragon game contains all the scrolling beat 'em up mayhem you'd expect, along with more characters to control and larger levels. Unfortunately, the game is just too fiddly to be worthwhile and the plodding response time doesn't help matters much, either.

DRAGON'S LAIR

Dirk the Daring's darling Daphne has been kidnapped by a big dragon and taken to his lair! Pausing only to grab his daggers, Dirk gives chase by entering the side-on scrolling castle but many traps and meemies await. Dragon's Lair has excellent graphics, but the remarkably slow, plodding gameplay and unresponsive controls make this one to avoid.

SKATE OR DIE

Skate or Die is divided into five different sections: The downhill race, freestyle on a half-pipe, downhill jam where you fight an opponent, half-pipe high jump and pool jaust where you battle other players. It's a fun game with great graphics and is highly recommended to board thrashers.

SMASH TV

Based on the classic Robotron 2084, this is one of the most violent games in history! This NES conversion is a technical miracle with loads of sprites on-screen at once and it incorporates all the speech and power-ups of the coin-op, too. One of the best Nintendo shooters available!

SNAKE, RATTLE 'N' ROLL

Guide your snake around the forced 3D backdrops, eating nibblys and dodging a number of bizzare sprites. Rare strike again with an extremely playable, technically amazing Nintendo game that simply demands purchase.

OVERALL 94%

SNAKE'S REVENGE

Snake (the hero of Metal Gear) is back, and this time he's vowed to destroy a jungle-based legion of enemies. This generally involves running around the jungle (for jungle, read maze), blowing away enemies and rescuing hostages. Snake's Revenge is extremely difficult to play, slow, unrewarding and tedious.

OVERALL 49%*SOCCER

The action in this football game is a little slow, and the graphics are only adequate but it plays well and that's what counts. Even though it's positively ancient, it's still miles better than all the new Nintendo football games.

OVERALL 83%*SOLAR JETMAN

Very similar to the old coin-op Gravitar, but there's much more to Solar Jetman as you explore a series of planets looking for pieces of the Golden Warpship. The playability is superlative, the graphics are great and the sound similarly excellent. All together and you've got a simply brilliant Nintendo game which should be an essential part of your collection.

OVERALL 95%*SOLOMON'S KEY

This is an excellent conversion of the Data East coin-op, which is one of the best arcade puzzle games out. If you're after some mental stimulation from your Nintendo, this has got to be somewhere on the shopping list.

OVERALL 83%*SOLSTICE

This is the first game from English firm Software Creations, and it's a goodie. Guide your little man around the forced perspective backdrops, solving puzzles and battling meenies. With it's excellent graphics, amazing sound and involving gameplay, Solstice is an essential purchase.

OVERALL 90%*SPIDERMAN - RETURN OF THE SINISTER SIX

Another licence that has had its potential wasted. Not that Spidey is a bad game, it's just not great. Surely the web-slinger deserves more than a basic platform game.

OVERALL 70%*SPY VS SPY

Based on the MAD magazine comic strips, Spy Vs Spy is one of the finest two-player games ever because of the vast potential for playing super-sneaky tricks on your computer, or better still, human opponent. Not the best graphics and sound in the world, but if you have another gamer at hand willing to play you, this is a must.

OVERALL 84%*STAR WARS

A brilliant game which follows the plot of the film very closely through a variety of challenging and addictive scenes. With superb graphics, sound and gameplay, this is one of the best game-of-the-film around. Very hard, though.

OVERALL 95%*STEALTH ATF

A promising-sounding but ultimately dull aerial combat game in which you guide the fighter of the title against the marauding enemy hordes.

OVERALL 54%*SUPER MARIO BROTHERS

Originally given away free with the machine - and what a terrific freebie! It's a truly classic platform game that's just so skillfully put together and is so much fun that once you've started playing, it's impossible to stop.

OVERALL 95%*SUPER MARIO BROTHERS II

This is a superb follow-up to Super Mario Brothers, with terrific graphics, great music and super-addictive platform gameplay. An utter must - along with all the other Mario games.

OVERALL 96%*SUPER MARIO BROTHERS III

Mario and Luigi return for their last 8-bit outing - and it's one of the finest video games ever devised. Featuring almost perfect playability, excellent graphics and sound along with a massive challenge. Super Mario Bros III is THE essential cart for your Nintendo.

OVERALL 98%*SUPER OFF-ROAD

Super Off-Road is a superior Super Sprint-style NES game that's great fun when playing with the Four Player adaptor. The repetitive nature of the game may put some people off, especially when played in one player mode.

OVERALL 81%*SUPER SPIKE VOLLEYBALL

Visit the beaches of America to participate in a series of volleyball matches in this cool sports simulation. With it's Four Player adaptor compatibility, Super Spike Volleyball is a great game that should appeal to most sports fans.

OVERALL 83%*SUPER TURRICAN

A good action blaster with some nice graphical touches and a dead-hard hero! Super Turrican is tough, but by no means impossible.

OVERALL 91%*SWORDS AND SERPENTS

Big role-playing game very similar to the Bard's Tale computer game series. Short on action but long on depth, this is one that adventure and role-playing fans will love.

OVERALL 81%*TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES

Although they're now tragically uncool, Turtles is a fun game that provides plenty of beat 'em up action, a hint of exploration and taxes your brains as well, as you rescue April O'Neil. Worth checking out.

OVERALL 86%*TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES: THE ARCADE GAME

A simultaneous two-player game based on one of the most popular coin-ops ever. TMNT II is a very close conversion but when it comes down to it, there isn't much in the game and the repetitive action soon becomes stale.

OVERALL 64%*TENNIS

The graphics aren't the greatest and there's not much sound to speak of, but Nintendo Tennis is quite playable.

OVERALL 75%*TEN-YARD FIGHT

A conversion of the old Irem coin-op, this is one of the only arcade-style American football games available on any machine. It's simple but fun and is worth looking at if you're new to American football and want to learn some more about the sport.

OVERALL 76%*TERMINATOR II

One of the greatest movies of all time could've been the NES game to end them all. Unfortunately, what you get are five limited levels, most of which are set around a tedious platform environment. The game isn't awful - it's just dull and very unoriginal. For die-hard movie fans only.

OVERALL 72%*TRIS

This block-based mind-teaser is the greatest puzzle game ever written. It looks naff, sounds naff... but play it and you'll be instantly hooked.

OVERALL 91%*TIGER HELI

This is a fairly straightforward up-the-screen blast in which the player pilots a heavily armed combat chopper. The graphics are pretty samey throughout the game, the sound is equally bland and the gameplay is only average. Not the greatest of shoot 'em ups.

OVERALL 65%*TINY TOONS

Yet another NES platform game, this time starring baby versions of famous cartoon characters. The graphics and sound are great, and the gameplay fun enough to keep you at it for yonks.

OVERALL 86%*TIME LORD

This game has a great idea and plot, but the overall execution is lacking and the game itself lacks the kind of excitement we've come to expect from an MB Games cart.

OVERALL 60%*TOM AND JERRY

With all the potential fun and frolics of a Tom and Jerry game, it's a shame to see them reduced to starring in yet another unoriginal platform game. Yes, it's fun. But there are loads of better games of this sort already available.

OVERALL 78%*TOP GUN

Although this wouldn't take anyone's breath away, the 3D combat is quite exciting and requires a fair bit of joystick skill. The graphics aren't bad at all and on the whole this is a smart game. If you yearn for something flight simulator-ish on your Nintendo, check this one out.

OVERALL 79%*TOP GUN II

You are Maverick, and it's your aim to take to the skies, complete a number of missions and blow up all the MiGs you can in the process. Top Gun II is not recommended because the graphics are extremely awful and the gameplay is very dull, indeed. Only the one-on-one, two-player mode is a good laugh.

OVERALL 51%*TOTALLY RAD

Promising sounding platform game sadly let down in its execution. It's just not fun enough to lift it out of a veritable sea of platform games available on NES.

OVERALL 74%*TO THE EARTH

This is the most recent of the Zapper gun titles, and it's probably the best of the lot. Very nice graphics and plenty of other neat presentation features set this apart from the other light gun games, so if you've got a Zapper, check it out.

OVERALL 80%*TURBO RACING

The NES is not well catered for when it comes to road racers, so it is nice to see a good, fast, action-filled effort like Turbo racing. Although the graphics are a bit rough, this is more than made up for by the exciting gameplay. Check it out.

OVERALL 80%*TRACK AND FIELD II

Featuring a massive 15 events (hurdles, pole vault, hammer throw, archery, clay pigeon, pistol shooting, canoeing, hang-gliding, Taekwondo, fencing and arm wrestling), this is graphically and sonically superb. With multi-player action and plenty of tough and challenging button-bashing gameplay, this is a sports simulation that no Nintendo owner should miss.

OVERALL 90%*TROG

A PacMan-style coin-op (two girls are playing it in the arcade scene in Terminator 2!) which depicts you as a caveman out to save his eggs from various prehistoric terrors. The graphics are well-animated and cute but nothing can disguise the simplistic gameplay.

OVERALL 70%*TROJAN

This is quite a decent beat 'em up (converted from a popular coin-op of yesteryear) but though the graphics are fine, the gameplay is a bit dull. A few more powerful weapons would have helped make this above average quality game into something special.

OVERALL 72%*URBAN CHAMPION

Urban Champion is a fairly ordinary beat 'em up in which you fight a variety of foes. The graphics are rather dull, and it doesn't take long before the four-year-old game gets rather boring. If you're after a good beat 'em up, check out something like Double Dragon instead.

OVERALL 54%*WILD GUNMAN

If you've got a Zapper gun, stick it into your holster and ride into town and battle a bunch of merciless hoodlums who've been whoopin' it up and scarin' the townfolk. The graphics are colourful and bright, and the aim of the game is simply to blast away as many of the bad dude cowboys as possible. It's quite good fun, but gets a bit boring after a while.

OVERALL 67%*WIZARDS AND WARRIORS

This is a smart-looking, but simplistic, platform game which requires an awful lot of jumping skills and little else making it a bit monotonous after a while. There are several superior platform games available on the NES, the Mario games for example, and the Megaman series.

OVERALL 72%*WORLD CUP SOCCER

The terrible overhead viewpoint is the least of this soccer sim's troubles. It captures absolutely none of the atmosphere of the real thing.

OVERALL 49%*WORLD WRESTLING

This has well-animated graphics, plenty of moves and enjoyable gameplay, and while it doesn't feature characters from WWF like the official title does, we still think it's the best wrestling game on the NES.

OVERALL 84%*WRECKING CREW

The graphics are simple but nicely drawn, and the soundtracks are superb, making this platform hammer 'em up a treat to play. It's not easy and there are loads of screens and even a designer option if you want to try to make your own.

OVERALL 81%

WWF SUPERSTARS OF WRESTLING

Leap into the ring of the All-American World Wrestling Federation along with all your favourite wrestlers from the popular TV series. This version of WWF is good fun for a while but it's a tad easy and only the two-player option really gives you value for money.

OVERALL 80%

XEVIOUS

The original coin-op's best feature was its pretty graphics and these haven't been translated too well to the comparatively chunky-pixelled NES, so all you're left with is a passable, though hardly exciting, up-the-screen blast.

OVERALL 65%

ZELDA II: ADVENTURE OF LINK

This RPG-style game is absolutely vast - much bigger than the original - and it's graphically superior, too. The gameplay is also beefed up with magic and beat 'em up-style swordplay, and again, the cart comes with a battery game-save system. This is the top NES RPG, and one of the most enjoyable on any system. Make sure you give it a try.

OVERALL 94%

GAME BOY*ADVENTURE ISLAND II

Hudson Soft's equivalent of the Mario series is equally impressive with clear, uncluttered graphics and uncomplicated gameplay that offers loads of action and levels to explore. Master Hudson is as unlikely a hero as Mario.

OVERALL 91%

ALIEN III

What, more aliens, and movie stars no less! Thankfully their infestation of the Game Boy is forgivable because this title is excellent! You control Ripley as she carries out her mission to destroy pretty much everything in sight. With some exploration and puzzle elements sidling in to join the fun, this is a better than average shoot 'em up and comes highly recommended from us shy, retiring NMS folks!

OVERALL 90%

ALLEYWAY

This sad version of the ancient game, Breakout, is one of the most simplistic, tedious and unchallenging games available on Game Boy and should only be bought by simpering buffoons with more money than sense.

OVERALL 27%

BALLOON KID

Become a balloon's best friend in this rather weird floating collect 'em up. Not only is it strange, but it's also very dull. Things get repetitive very quickly and the unresponsive controls don't do this cart any favours, either.

BART SIMPSON'S ESCAPE FROM CAMP DEADLY

Bart's been packed off to summer camp and he's not too happy about it. Help him escape in this multi-level platform game, throwing fruit, dodging other campers and generally having quite a smart time. An enjoyable if not overly original title which will take some beating.

OVERALL 85%

BART VS THE JUGGERNAUTS

Not the best Simpsons game in the world but certainly the most interesting. A sort of Simpsons meet the gladiators that pits the hapless Bartman against some burly competition in a series of vaguely athletic events. It's tough, perhaps too tough, but it gets better as the game goes on. If you can get that far!

OVERALL 71%

BURAI FIGHTER DELUXE

Take to the skies once more in this horizontally scrolling shoot 'em up type story of a mega-powerful robot and his fight against injustice. The graphics are pretty good, there's always lots to do and the action is pretty fast paced. A decent quality shoot 'em up and no mistake.

OVERALL 83%

BURGERTIME DELUXE

Burgertime must rank as the world's first fast food simulator. Now the coin-op of yesteryear has returned, and it's ideal Game Boy material. The idea is to drop burger ingredients into a dish from some platforms by running over them (not very hygienic). To make your job harder you are chased by monstrous pickles and hot dogs. Burgertime is a real laugh, though it does get very repetitive after the first few levels.

OVERALL 78%

CASTLEVANIA

Take control of Simon, a whip-wielding hero and battle your way through four large scrolling platform landscapes. The gameplay is addictive and keeps you going for quite a while - but be prepared for some annoyance because there are some nasty hidden surprises that don't make themselves apparent until it's too late to do anything about them.

OVERALL 79%

CHASE HQ

Oh dear, converting this coin-op to the Game Boy wasn't really a very good idea, was it? Try as it might, the Game Boy just can't cope with the speed necessary to make this game really thrilling. The result is slow, sluggish and particularly tedious.

OVERALL 42%

CHESSMASTER

This chess sim has appeared on loads of formats, but this is the best version to date. The game is hard but logical and all the rules of chess are accounted for. The difficulty levels are well set, so beginners can pick it up straight away and grand masters won't find the going ridiculously easy. Best of all, of course, it's fully portable so you can exercise your brain at any time you like.

DYNA BLASTER

This puzzle game caused something of a stir on the PC (that version was called Bomber Man) - and the Game Boy is just as good! Simple but very addictive, and the second (slightly different) version of the game included on the cartridge makes it great value.

OVERALL 88%

● HOW TO PLAY:
Walk, run, swagger and jump through a multitude of platform levels, suspiciously reminiscent of most other platform games.

- A Jump
- B Punch, hold to run
- S Starts/ Pauses game
- S Very little

We can't really tell you quite what the plot of this latest Game Boy adventure is, as we had a Japanese version with no instructions. However, we can assume that it involves Popeye (the hero) trying to win the heart of Olive Oyl (his undernourished romantic interest), while fending off the unwanted attention of Bluto (the mean, nasty villain).

As Popeye is of the seafaring type, it is appropriate that this adventure is set on a ship. Spinach, too, plays an important part of the game, as everyone knows how Popeye likes to keep his iron intake high. (No 'run down' feeling for this lad!) And don't forget to check out the galley below, that's real shag carpeting! Aaarrhht!

CANDIED YAMS

What would a platform game be without invincibility, I ask you? Nothing. Diddely squat. Zilch, etcetera. And what better way to give the game's central character this power than in the form of a flashing star? Yes, collect one of these beauties and Popeye's on easy street, at least for a few seconds. He can run through baddies and tap dance on spikes, just don't fall down one of the many bottomless pits, or it's off to the Platform Game Pit Of Hell, where all two dimensional game characters fear to tread!

FIST POWER!

Ever in search of steroids to pump up his already grotesquely deformed physique, Popeye has found the answer in canned spinach. Amazing as it sounds, the green stuff that makes young kiddies squirm at the dinner table bestows our hero with incredible strength, increasing the size of his forearm to massively distorted proportions!

Popeye starts with three cans under his belt and each can that Popeye consumes from then on adds to his arm size. After eating seven cans, Popeye is endowed with an unlimited supply of empty cans which he throws in a straight line across the screen, whenever he swings a punch. The collected cans o' spinach also count as Popeye's life meter, each time he comes into contact with an enemy or spikes, a can disappears from his collection. This also reduces the size and power of his fists.

PERUVIAN PYGMY YAMS

As with most games of this ilk, there is a time limit to adhere to, but who worries about time limits? You should, because in Popeye 2 there are a few stages which push you to finish them in under the 150 or so seconds that are on the clock at the start of the stage. There are, of course, hidden time bonuses scattered around, but if you waste too much time looking for them, you'll be cutting it fine when it comes time to get out of the level.

COMMENT

Popeye 2 seems to be an amalgamation of every other Game Boy platform game. However, that doesn't mean that it is bad; in fact, Popeye 2 can be quite a jolly adventure, sometimes.

ANDREW

Popeye behaves in a way not unlike that of a certain plumber we all know, even the levels have similar situations as Super Mario Land to work your way around, but the control over Popeye is sometimes dodgy. Enemies appear from the edge of the screen just as you're shinning it up a rope, giving you no time to see, let alone avoid them, and when Popeye gets hit, he falls back, often to be struck again by the same baddie. The bosses are very sad, with little animation in their attack patterns. Occasionally they hurl some sort of projectile at poor old Popeye but, for most of the bosses, I found that I didn't have to move Popeye very far in order to defeat them.

If you put your mind to it, most players will have this game licked by lunch time, but for the younger player it should last considerably longer.

Popeye 2 won't bowl you over with originality, but it's a competent platformer that will appeal younger players and Super Mario Land fans.

T2 vs Battle

T2. Synonymous with excessive wastage of innocent victims, maximum property damage, big guns and a steroid-pumpin' psycho-babe with huuge jawbones! Armed with a Nintendo Scope and game cart, you can experience all this in the comfort of your own home. Well..., kind of.

Super Scope waste-fest ahoy!

It is possible to play this game without this newly renamed marvel of infra-red technology, though you lose the satisfaction of "shooting" your foes. For those used to playing Starwing, keypad controls to aim the cursor up and down are exactly the opposite! Confusing or what?

Maximum carnage

The game's pretty much a side scrolling kinda deal with plenty of Cyberdyne brethren for you to terminate. Fire at wooden boxes scattered around for shield, power-ups or ammo to satisfy trigger happy fingers. Occasionally you bump into some human pals fighting for your cause. To avoid a human casualty penalty, don't shoot at them. However, the difficulty of this task, coupled with my psychotic disposition, made wasting everyone much

The "story" to this game is such pure bollocksville excess for a simple aim & shoot affair that I won't even go into it. And what's all this "Standing Tanks" name crap for the robots? Mobile Suits for the purists, please! Nuff said!

REVIEW

SUPER NINTENDO
ENTERTAINMENT SYSTEM

Find the W-spot!

The generic enemy-waste formula is to find its weak spot, build up your blast-charge (see level at bottom of screen) and repeatedly hit that mark. Your opponent basically flies from side to side, may jump around or spin a bit, and then lob blasts to you. These are neutralised easily by frenetic rapid fire in their general direction. Nothing to it.

Think before you shoot!

You have one bomb per stage that inflicts major damage on your foes as well as neutralising their blasts. Use it wisely. Pushing the cursor button alternates special items which include homing lasers, shield and a power/speed booster. Not all items are available for each level, though.

COMMENT

AMOS

Of these two Nintendo Scope games, T2 fares marginally better in gameplay, thanks to having a variety of objectives. Unfortunately, annoying touches, like Terminators firing from the sides of the screen where you just can't shoot back, quickly begin to grate. Also, the aiming cursor freezes when you're not firing, which is confusing when you want to resume fire. It's all pretty sad, just like the arcade game but without the natty big screen. Battleclash is a much slicker looking game with its cool mecha and anime character designs, but where's the gameplay? I dunno. I looked hard but I just couldn't find it. Really, I expect a lot better than this from Nintendo. Even the between-battle banter sets a new standard for brainless dialogue.

So what's the verdict? Well, both games are definitely better than the abysmal six-in-one game cart supplied with the Nintendo Scope though neither is up to the standard of Yoshi's Safari (which was far too easy, anyway). So, what to buy? None of them. Go and play a round of Skirmish instead. Get some real battle scars.

Shoot from the hip!

The Nintendo Scope is an inherently clumsy piece of equipment - your average Uzi is easier to handle - and, if used as designed, will definitely leave you with a gammy neck. Honestly, looking through the sights not only strains your eyes and neck, but it also tends to hide some of the bombs that are thrown at you so that you don't see them until it's too late.

RATINGS

PRESENTATION

- ▲ Cool high tech look.
- ▼ Options available do sod all to enhance gameplay.

80

GRAPHICS

- ▲ Groovy sprites, colourful backgrounds. Scrolls smoothly.
- ▼ Clunky sprite animation. Occasional bland background.

75

SOUND

- ▲ Chunky & crisp FX, pumping music.
- ▼ Irritating "whirring" sound from blast energy meter.

80

PLAYABILITY

- ▲ Great if you want a totally mindless shooting spree.
- ▼ Quickly becomes dull and repetitive. Frustrating lack of directional control.

LASTABILITY

- ▲ Initially quite fun as you continuously blast away at the enemy.
- ▼ Absolutely no variation in the gameplay. Way too easy.

- CONTINUES: N/A
- RESPONSIVENESS: Pretty alright
- 1ST DAY SCORE: Pot loads of balls
- GAME ORIGIN: A conversion of that fine bar "sport" of pool. The one that's like snooker, not the swimming ones.

CONTROLS

● HOW TO PLAY: Do battle with your trusty pool cues by knocking small numbered spheres - or "balls" in holes - or "pockets" around the flat balse surface - or "table".

- A Aim/shoot
- B Alter cursor speed
- X Turn phantom balls off

- L/R L: Rotate table left in zoom
R: Rotate table right in zoom
- S START: in-game menu
SELECT: Alter ball speed

There is a dimension far removed from our own - where real humans meet with ridiculous cartoon comedy characters. Its name is Pool World. Yes, sensible, right-thinking, rational homo sapiens mix with chest-wigged, curly-mopped dodgy-moustache-wearing look-like-something-out-of-Starsky-and-Hutch "sportsmen" who call themselves "Hustlers". Generally, these chaps chew a lot of gum, wear mirror shades in the dark and favour large medallions to off-set their torsal jungle.

The people in this world are bound by one common factor - the game of pool. Pool is a bit like snooker, only because it's American, they had to simplify the rules a bit. And in some cases remove some of the balls so the game didn't run in to tricky double digits. Basically, instead of racking up points, a la good old Tommy snooker, the aim of the game is pot all of your balls - indentified by either spots or stripes so that's easy enough - and then sink the black 8-ball to clinch the game. There is another version played with only nine balls, but that's just for real morons.

CHAMP

▲ Pool action - I think. Yawn.

FLYING GHOST BALLS

If you're a bit crap with angles and things and don't reckon you'd be very good at pool, this game has a feature to help you. The ball is aimed as usual with the cue-ball ghost cursor. Now press the A button once and the trajectory of the ball you've aimed at is displayed with flying ghost balls. This makes it a piece of cake to work out where your chosen target will end up, although the flight of the cue ball is left a mystery. You might think this would make the whole thing farcially simple, but the ghost path is only really an estimate, albeit a close one, leaving that all-important sense of uncertainty and danger intact. Still, if you do reckon it peesyfies things too much, there is an option to turn the auto aiming off.

EXTREME CLOSE-UP! NOT!

The standard view of the table in Championship Pool is a ten-feet-above-the-table downwards top-down angle. However, if this is a little remote for your tastes, try pressing the Y button. Go on. Hold, the view zooms in, allowing you to get a closer look at the proceedings. Press Y again and an ultra-close-up is the result. In this view it's possible to use the L and R buttons to rotate the table, allowing you to check out all the angles of any shot right from the table top itself. To get back into the regular view, simply press Y a third time. It's not possible to actually take your shot in close-up mode.

SPIN

LEVEL

SELECT SPIN      ELEVATE CUE

EXIT      LOWER CUE

YEAH, SPIN ON MATEY

One of the hardest things to master in real life pool is putting the right spin on the cue ball. However, there's no such faffing about in Championship Pool thanks to the comprehensive spin gauge. Press START to bring up the in-game options and select the SPIN option (strangely enough). A sub-screen pops up with a lifelike representation of the cue ball depicted, along with a disembodied cue. Use the joypad to move the cue over the exact spot of ball you'd prefer to bash, and use the X and B buttons to alter the angle the cue is held at, allowing you to bounce the little white fella around like you would not believe.

CHOO-CHOO TRAINING

The ideal place for Championship Pool beginners to start is on the training table. Choose your game set up and play away without having to worry about an opponent. This leaves you completely free to get the hang of the controls and improve your general knowledge of ballistics. You're also able to reset the table at any point, allowing you to practice your breaks over and over again, or whatever takes your fancy.

COMMENT

13

RAD Championship Pool is certainly one of the most comprehensive conversions of the sport on any machine. There's absolutely stacks of options and just about every permutation of the game is included. However, pool isn't particularly the most thrilling of sports and this is definitely reflected in Championship. Whilst the single player tournaments are pretty tough they're not particularly stimulating. If you're going to have a second player around a lot then fair enough, this is a sedate but enjoyable title - if you're on your own you'd be better off going to the local snooker paradise and playing the real thing.

GAME BOY

After a string of distinctly average games across a multitude of formats Bart Simpson is back and this time he's bought his leguminous vegetable pal. It's a bit sad really, you see the succession of mediocre titles seems to have had an adverse effect on the poor lad. All his former mates have deserted him in favour of some new guys called Beavis and Butthead and no-one's buying his crap records anymore. So, sad and neglected, Bart starts hanging out with the new kid on the block - Keith T Beanstalk. Now Bart and Keith hit it off instantly, Bart having a zero IQ and Keith being, well, a real Beanstalk. But one, dark, day the Ministry for Badly Contrived Introductions come into town and whisk Keith away in order for Bart to have a purpose in this latest excuse for a Simpsons licence. Well, it's no more or less credible than the actual storyline for the game which involves something about Homer swapping his Bowling Trophy for some magic beans. Anyway, the upshot of whatever storyline you choose to believe is that Bart, armed only with his trusty catapult, climbs a giant beanstalk in search of his verdant pal/dad's bowling trophy and enters six levels of a magical kingdom where everything is ten times its normal size on his way to a showdown with a Homer-esque ogre who reigns in a suitably ominous castle. It's no simple matter to get to the castle though. Giant insects hinder his progress in early levels, whilst dodging arrows is the order of the day later on, and that's to say nothing of the problems he encounters when he finally meets the giant.

▲ Bart waited in vain for an interesting caption to come along. It was a very long wait indeed.

It's about two years since the Simpsons ceased being fashionable, yet, with a steady frequency, we keep getting Simpsons games foisted upon us and the sad truth is that they've all been a bit disappointing, and, while this latest title tries to do something different with its large graphics, it follows in its predecessors footsteps. Have a look if you're a die-hard Simpsons fan but better platform action is plentiful. Try Speedy Gonzales, Kirby's Dream Land or even Escape from Camp Deadly.

RATINGS

PRESENTATION

▲ Great intro screens tell the (real) story of the game.

88

GRAPHICS

▲ Large graphics that move well enough.

85

SOUND

▼ Fair to middling. Nowt special.

75

PLAYABILITY

▲ Hey, it's not too easy and not too hard.

77

LASTABILITY

▲ Six longish levels will keep you going for a while.

75

OVERALL

Another mediocre Bart title that is raised slightly by better than average graphics. There are better platformers around.

READER SYSTEM

There seems to be an increasing number of readers who are using these pages as a dating service. In all fairness, seeing as 'try before you buy' policy is impractical, those readers seeking romance should send in a photo that NMS can print along with their letters.

Apart from that, if you've got something to say, or you'd just like to be insulted by the Lard Almighty, write to Mailbag, Nintendo Magazine System, PO Box A305, Sydney South, NSW 2000.

DEAR FAT BOY,

I am writing this letter to you, to recommend to all N-heads out there to hook up their Super NES machines to a stereo system right away. The sound is absolutely brilliant on most games; the explosions are bigger, effects are better, and the music and speech are incredible.

My stereo is simply a 24k gold Super NES/Famicom AV cable hooked up to an amplifier and large speakers. Fat Christmas present, eh!

Also, where the hell is Trax SFXI!?!?

Thanks,
Steve West,
Rostrevor, SA

He's right, it does make a difference. The 3D sections of Jurassic Park are frightening in surround sound!

Trax is now called Stunt Race FX and will be out in June.

DEAR FAT BOY,

I own all three different Nintendo Systems and seven games - by the way you've got the best mag under the sun! Anyway, could you put a poster of Mario kicking Sonic's stuck-up butt into outer space? What I'm trying to say is Sega sux!

I don't know about you, Fat Boy, but I think if someone makes a game called Sonic vs Mario, Mario would kick that little blue jackass to shreds. By the way, what's your fave style of game (platform, top view etc)?

I wish Nintendo would hurry up and make Super Mario World 2, don't you?

Reuben Field,
Byabarra, NSW

Yes, Ruben. Now, isn't it time for your nap?

DEAR FAT BOY,

Are there any plans to make a Married With Children game?

For each level you could play a different character, eg. when you play as Peggy, you have to spend all of Al's money and hit the limit on his credit cards as quickly as possible. Bud would have to climb the drain pipe next door to perv on Marcie; while Al and Buck roam the streets looking for food in bins and scrounging for change to buy the latest copy of "Big Guns".

Christina Applegate Fan,
Somewhere in front of a TV

Don't forget the hidden hooter bonus stage!

DEAR FAT BOY,

Every issue in your totally cool mag, I read that people whine that the Super NES isn't violent enough. They panic when they hear that Mortal Kombat hasn't got the proper fatalities or has no blood.

Who cares!

The Super NES already has the most violent game on the market. A game so violent it leaves Mortal Kombat in the dust. What is it! Mario Paint - what else? With so many different shades of red, the cool air brush technique making blood is a snap. Have Mario tear out Sonic's head with the spine hanging out and then animate it for real fun. There are no limitations. Try it out yourself and see what I mean.

Jarad Wong,
Townsville, Qld.

Jarad, you are a prince among a nation of intellectual paupers. Send me a video of some of your art, OK?

DEAR FAT BOY,

Whatever happened to the theory that once software piracy was eliminated, software prices would drop?

Obviously, it is a false hope dished out by software companies in the days when the Amiga and Commodore 64 was the law of the land. Back then, (Here we go! - FAT BOY) there were more cracking-computer-pirate-teams than there were software companies. With this "hope" of prices dropping with the advent of cartridge-based consoles, customers went out and bought a Sega or Nintendo (Nintendo are better) hoping that prices will drop, but what has happened is prices have doubled where, once, a person could buy a good Amiga game for $60, but now a good Super NES game can sell for up to $200 (imported SFII TURBO CARTS).

I express my concern because this has caused extreme measures from the public, who find these prices intolerable and have found other ways to get games they could not normally afford. Namely, the "cartridge back-up systems" which can store up to 12 megs on a 1.6 meg formatted disk.

I won't go into any details, as it may give your readers ideas and I'm certain these systems are illegal. The message I am trying to put across is that if software prices dropped this may never have had happened. I know the companies justify themselves by saying more effort and money is put in a cart and it's development. But if every Tom, Dick and Harry had pirated games on their system the same fate as occurred to Atari, Amiga etc might befall the Super NES if the software companies don't pick up their act.

P.S: Great mag, I changed my loyalties from CVG to your mag three issues ago. It's dope. By the way, why are all you boys droolin' over Vanessa? She ain't nothin' spec. You should adopt the freebie for the best letter.

Jeffrey Galang,
Albion Park, NSW

Wibble wibble, waffle waffle. You sure can spin the sticky stuff! Anyone who paid $200 for an imported version of SFII Turbo is quite possible the stupidest person in Australia. Now I'm not going to condone high prices but, do you remember the types of games that you used to get on the Atari? They were complete crap in comparison to the new generation arcade quality Super NES games.

Nevertheless, in an increasing competitive market, I'm hoping that Super NES software prices will begin to come down later in the year as the NES and Game Boy cart prices have.

DEAR FAT BOY,

I think your mag is the best ever!

Anyway, my friend told me that the companies who make Game Boy games aren't making them anymore! Is this true? I thought this sounded pretty stupid so I thought I'll check with the pros.

Please, please answer my question!!!!

Shane Gibb
Benalla, Vic.

Your friend has just won this issue's Gibbon Of The Month Award.

DEAR FAT BOY,

I recently retired from basketball and I want your job playing computer games and getting paid for it. I have my own transport (a car) with a great number plate "MR AIR". I must have a gallon of Gatorade a day because nothing beats Gatorade.

Shannon Wakefield
Stanhope, Vic.

Lawdy, Shannon, you had me going there for, ohhh... at least a day or two. Next time, don't sign your real name - idiot!

DEAR FAT BOY,

Look, I'm virtually broke, I've got a Super NES with one game that I've completed (King Arthur's World) and I've been like this for over six months! What do I do?

David Blunden
Adamstown Heights, NSW

Get a job, ya lousy bum!

DEAR FAT BOY,

Despite being too old to be called a kid, (much too old, unfortunately) I have been a Nintendo-holic since the early days.

Whilst having a wide selection of games, my personal preference lies with the RPG variety. Over the years I have accumulated, played and conquered all RPG releases and it goes without saying that the all-time Number One favourite was Zelda.

Until the advent of Super NES that is! Zelda has now, of course, been narrowly relegated to second place by Zelda 3.

Sadly enough I feel that all subsequent RPG releases have been quite disappointing (although Mystic Flight wasn't too bad).

Therefore you can imagine my elation upon hearing the joyous tidings of the forthcoming release of Zelda 4; followed shortly thereafter by a depression of Mt Everest proportions after hearing the bone-crushing, mind-sapping, brain-numbing utterly devastating news that it is to be available only Game Boy!

Fair enough, this group of followers do deserve a chance to share and enjoy these wonderful games but to deprive the MAJORITY of us who prefer (or need!) a bigger screen, is totally beyond belief or comprehension.

I'm a shattered man - make that big kid - but I'm still shattered just the same.

Quote, PUL-EEZE, unquote, deliver the multitude of us original Zelda fans from the depths of our despair with the news that we too shall be able to join with Link as he "leaps from his resting place and thus embarks upon yet another colossal adventure in which he hopefully relieves Koholint of its sorrows and earns himself a safe journey home."

Brian Woodward
Wandin North, Vic.

Buy yourself a Game Boy, you old tightwad! You won't regret it!

DEAR FAT BOY,

I think you mag is fab! It's the best mag east of Sydney (Think about that).

Referring to Debbie and Danielle's letter in issue 10, so modest about their Super Mario Kart skills - how good are they? Have they seen the "Special Cup" in 100cc? My best time is 13"87 on Mario Circuit 1! Can you better it? Anybody?

Steven Edmunds
Thurgoona, NSW

Pathetic. Haven't you reached the 150cc cup yet?

DEAR FAT BOY,

As you can see from my two photos, I have got the highest score on record for Starwing, and I am very proud of it.

DEAR FAT BOY,

I have just finished reading Adam Waycott's letter in issue 10. He sounds good! Could you please tell him I'm interested. I'm a 14 year old blonde who wants a boyfriend bad. I like Street Fighter II, and am good at it, so please tell him. Thanks.

DEAR FAT BOY,

Hello.

I'm from Sweden. Are you from Sweden too?

I was just wondering if Crash Dummies was coming out on Super NES and, if so, will it have lots of Volvos?

Cheese Man

Yes, Crash Dummies is out, but it is about as exciting as Sweden on early closing day. There are no Volvos. For my money, there have only been two good things to come out of Sweden, Agnetha and Frida from Abba. Cor!

DEAR FAT BOY,

I have a girlfriend at school and she loved me until she got a Super NES.

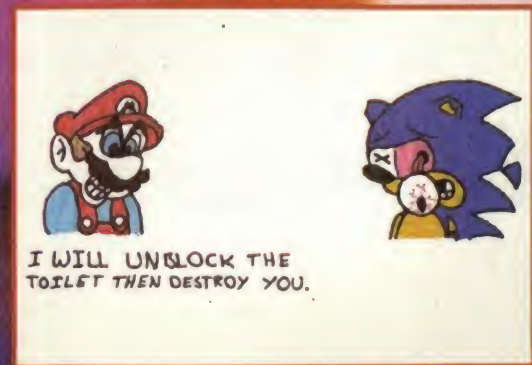

Can you please help me with some advice?

Kane Robazzini

Brisbane, Qld.

Buy a Super NES and discover for yourself how sweet true love can be.

▼ Brent Waller of Forest Hill, Qld, had NMS in stitches with this strip.

This month is April, which may explain why there are so many fools writing to me. The most frequently asked question has been "Will there be blood in the Super NES version of Mortal Kombat II?" Well, Acclaim haven't released any details, though it seems unlikely considering the bad press the Sega version of MK1 received - it was banned in Spain! You'll all just have to wait until September, when the 24meg cart is due to be released. Until then, keep sending non-Mortal Kombat questions to me, Skull, at Q&A, PO Box A305, Sydney South, NSW 2000. See ya in 30!

- Q 1. Is it illegal to have a NTSC Super NES in Australia?
2. Would you be able to run an American or Japanese Super NES with the Australian power supply unit?
3. Are Nintendo planning to increase security in cartridges? Their recent attempts were a waste of time, I have the Pro Action Replay MkII and I have yet to find a game that I can't play.
4. When will Stunt Race FX be released?
5. Why are we (Australians) allowed to hire out Nintendo games, but in the UK, Nintendo does not allow it?
6. Why are American Super NES games supplied with a protective cover?

— Joe Galati
Wingham, NSW

- A Skull: 1. No.
2. Yes.
3. There are a few games that the Pro Action Replay MkII can't handle. As for added security, Nintendo are not backwards in coming forwards in this area. You can be sure that more attempts to introduce a totally effective security chip will be made.
4. Stunt Race FX is scheduled for a June release.
5. Different laws, obviously.
6. To protect them, obviously! It's a shame that our games don't come with similar packaging, though.

- Q What ever happened to Star Trek on the Super NES? I've been waiting for it for ages!

— Lost Tribbe,
Gamma Quadrant

A Skull: I've been waiting too! Finally, Spectrum Holobyte's game based on Star Trek: The Next Generation is on the way and it should be available in June. Also, there is a Star Trek: Deep Space Nine game coming to the Super NES, too! It should be arriving through the worm hole in November from Playmate.

- Q I recently bought a Game Boy and I noticed in the instruction booklet it says not to use Nickel Cadmium rechargeable batteries. Why is that so?

— Jonathan Spanoghe
Yorkine, WA

A Skull: There is a voltage difference between Ni-Cad rechargeable batteries and regular alkaline ones. Ni-Cads put out 1.2 volts for most of their life, while alkaline batteries at first put out 1.5 volts which drops off at the end of their life. Although it says not to use rechargeable batteries in your Game Boy, we have had no problems when we used them. Sanyo, who are a large manufacturer of rechargeable batteries, are currently investigating the effects and any problems that may arise. We'll let you know what they come up with.

- Q 1. Can you have a Game Genie, a Pro Action Replay and a cart in a Super NES at the same time?

2. What do you personally think about the game Zombies Ate My Neighbours?
3. Why isn't this letter going to be printed?

— David Blunden,
Adamstown Heights, NSW

A Skull: 1. Don't do it man!
2. I like it, very much.
3. What do you mean? It has been!

- Q 1. Will Super Street Fighter II: The New Challengers ever be released in Australia? If so, when?

2. What is the maximum amount of megs that can fit on a Super NES? Because until SFII Turbo, I thought it was only 16meg.
3. When will we be seeing FX Trax? P.S. Will send more money next time if you print my letter.

— Leo the Lion,
Melbourne, Vic

A Skull: Dear readers, you may be wondering how such a boring letter managed to slip into the Q&A pages. The answer is simple. Leo asked if I would publish his questions and, as an added incentive, he included $1.00. Well, bribery works! (But in future, envelopes less than 2cm thick will be ignored.)

- Q How the hell do you get Action Replay Codes? I mean, is it something you plug into your Super NES? If so, could you please tell me where I could buy it and how much it might be? If so, I'll dump that lump of lard, Fat Boy, just for you!

— Cindy Crawford's twin sister,
Brisbane, Qld

A Skull: OK, there are probably quite a few of you out there having a good chuckle over this question. "Yo! This fool don't even know what an Action Replay is!" Well, there could be two reasons, but first I'll answer the question.

An Action Replay is a device which sits between the Super NES and the cartridge. It reads the information contained in the game and creates loops in the program, thus allowing you to change parameters such as the number of lives, invincibility, starting level etc. The codes printed in our tips section are to be entered before the game starts, but you MUST have an Action Replay to do so. This may all come as news to those new to the video game world, as is no doubt the case for many of the readers who have written in. However, I suspect in the case of "Cindy Crawford's Sister" it is because you have an IQ lower than a Master System devotee. A lame baboon could probably beat you at Tetris. Please don't write back.

Q This is not fair. It's even enough to make Guile cry. I've been hearing all this talk about the SFII comics, but I can't seem to lay my hands on one. Can you pleaseeeeeease, pleasee tell me where I can get a copy near by so I can live happily waiting between issues of NMS? The newsagents near me don't stock them and there isn't a comic store in my area.

— Rana S.
Surfers Paradise, Qld

A Skull: Try Chinese newsagents in your local Chinatown area (if your town has one), or you could perhaps get a comic shop in a major city to send them to you by mail order. If you still have no luck, then fear not, for being the generous being that I am, a few copies that were lying around our office are headed your way.

Q I am looking for an instruction booklet to The Legend of Zelda and I haven't yet been able to find it. Can you help?

— Caroline Dance,
Kalgoorlie, WA

A Skull: I spoke to Nintendo and, unfortunately, they only print the same number as there are game cartridges. The only solution is to photocopy someone else's, or perhaps hire the game from a video shop.

Legend of Zelda and I haven't yet been able to find it. Can you help?

— Caroline Dance,
Kalgoorlie, WA

A Skull: I spoke to Nintendo and, unfortunately, they only print the same number as there are game cartridges. The only solution is to photocopy someone else's, or perhaps hire the game from a video shop.

Q 1. How do you do the golden fire balls with Ken and Ryu in SFII Turbo?

2. In SFII Turbo, my friend said that if you finish the game on level seven, all perfects, 10 star turbo and with the special moves turned off, you get Super SFII. Is this true?

3. Also in SFII Turbo, is it possible to do Guile's handcuffs.

— Michael Vandenberg,
Geelong, Vic

A Skull: 1. The golden fireballs are a random colour glitch carried over from the original arcade machine, but they act the same as normal fireballs.
2. Isn't it funny that there are so many readers that have baboons for friends?
3. No. This, like the golden fireballs, was a glitch in the original arcade game. However, it was removed from all subsequent versions.

Q I am looking for an instruction booklet to The Legend of Zelda and I haven't yet been able to find it. Can you help?

— Caroline Dance,
Kalgoorlie, WA

A Skull: I spoke to Nintendo and, unfortunately, they only print the same number as there are game cartridges. The only solution is to photocopy someone else's, or perhaps hire the game from a video shop.

Q 1. Do you have any more news on Ren & Stimpy games?
2. What about Itchy and Scratchy?

— Tom Engel,
Canberra, ACT

A Skull: 1. Yes, Playcorp are looking at releasing a second Ren & Stimpy game for the Super NES. It's called Buckeroos, and it is similar to the NES version we told you about a few months back. On the Game Boy front, yes, there is a Ren & Stimpy game but it will probably not be released in Australia.

2. Still no news on Itchy & Scratchy, although Acclaim are working on Game Boy and Super NES versions. Bart and the Beanstalk is reviewed this issue and there is also a completely new Simpsons game for the Super NES, though all we know at this stage is that it's called Virtual Bart Simpson and it's 16 megl. Its release is currently set for August, and you can be sure to read more about it here soon.

Q 1. Is the Simpsons Illustrated still being published?

2. Is the X-Men game coming out on the Super NES? If so, when?

3. The newspaper said there's going to be a new Nintendo machine in '95. Any info on that?

4. What's Mario's surname?

— Ben,
Wagga Wagga, NSW

A Skull: 1. Sadly, no. Trielle Corporation, the publishers of this wonderful magazine, used to publish it, but Simpsons creator, Matt Groening, decided to stop the magazine and concentrate on his latest Simpsons exercise, Bongo comics. The first issue, Simpsons Comics and Stories, was published by Trielle late last year, and copies may still be available if you look, however, there are more on the way.

2. It's already out, but it's crap.

3. We told you about it last year.

Where have you been! Nintendo's

Project Reality 64-bit, 3D console will be in the arcades by the end of this year and available as a home console by late 1995. For details, read NMS

October and November 1993 issues.

4. His name is Mario Mario.

TIPS TACTICS

This month's NHS is overflowing with the juiciest tips ever discovered by man! In fact, we've spilled onto extra pages to accommodate all the Super Bomberman tips that have been flooding in! As usual, though, we are running low on NES tips due to the lack of new games, so if you think you know a game back to front, share it with your fellow readers. We promise to reward you generously! Our address is PO Box A305, Sydney South, NSW 2000. Now get playing and start writing!

ADDAMS FAMILY

SECRET LEVEL: There is a secret room in the cellar that will take you to Morticia. Make your way to the last barrel on the right, then jump up and push up on the edge of the last barrel. From Adam Jones of Parafield Gardens in SA.

CRASH DUMMIES

LEVEL SELECT: Tim Weston from Orange, NSW, has this handy cheat. Push Up, Down, Left, Right before the title screen and a password screen should appear.

FORTRESS OF FEAR

SECRET ROOMS: Daniel Bush of Wanniansa, ACT, has these tips for this old Game Boy adventure.

1. At the beginning of the game, instead of going right, go left as far as you can and wait for a cloud to appear. When it does, jump on it and keep going until you come to some goodies.

2. In the room before the magical Giant Bat, get on the platform and when it's as high as it goes, jump into the top left corner. You should disappear and if you keep walking to the left, you will come to a secret room full of goodies. Instead of returning the way you came, go to the left corner and you'll be able to get to another room full of goodies!

3. On the Armoury level, in the room after the skull door, go left and you should see a dragon. With a bit of skill you can jump on it and then you'll see some platforms which will lead you to more goodies.

KIRBY'S DREAMLAND

EXTRA GAME: To play an extra game, wait until the title screen comes up, then simultaneously press Up, Select and A. The new game is more difficult. So says Peter Lenthall of Seaford, Victoria.

ELITE

CHEAT: OK dudes, listen up. This is a slightly complicated cheat, so straighten out and pay attention. Joshua Kelvin from Modbury North, SA, came up with this one, and here are his instructions.

1. Fast forward through the practice level and go to the files.
2. Move the name Jameson over to the second column and up one so the name Jameson is now BBBBBBB.
3. Now move the name BBBBBBB left and then down so it is in between the two names Jameson. Now rub them out by going over them.
4. Finally, move the name BBBBBBB to the top right hand corner. Exit and you will have the maximum amount of everything, except weapons.

SUPER MARIO ALL-STARS

THE LOST LEVELS

WARP: Upon starting level 5.1, make your way to a staircase after which you have to jump off two flying Koopas over the gap. When you come to a pile of blocks, hit the furthest one on the right hand side of the top layer and jump off the next flying Koopa to get onto the vine. Keep running right and you will find a warp to world six. This tip was sent in by the sincere Cindy McCallum, of Kalamunda, WA.

POCKY AND ROCKY

TIPS: Here's the locations to the mystic men in this jolly blaster, although David Beswick, who sent them in, failed to uncover the location of the mystic man in the sixth level. David said he looked everywhere and couldn't find him, but if you think you know where he is, let us know and we'll tell everyone how brilliant you are.

Level 1 - When it starts to rain, look for a frog in the pond and shoot it. Also, after defeating the nut boss, flick the floating basket for a 1-Up!

Level 2 - Keep shooting the King Kappa on the raft to reveal the mystic man.

Level 3 - Keep walking through the level until you come to the first three gates. Pass those and you will see lots of tombstones and two statues. Shoot the tombstone to the far right of the statues.

Level 4 - Once past the two bridges, follow the path left and shoot the eagle in the tree.

Level 5 - After the rolling spiked balls, walk left until you see a fireplace. Shoot the fireplace.

FINAL FIGHT 2

CHEAT: So you both want to be Haggar, eh? Now, thanks to this cheat sent in by Daniel Clements of Schofields, NSW, you can both play as your favourite final fighter. On the title screen press

JAMES BOND JUNIOR

PASSWORDS: We've received a few letters asking for help in this game, and help is on the way in the form of these passwords, sent in by Rupert Ferman of Woollahra, NSW.

Level 2: 0007

Level 3: 3675

Level 4: 9025

Level 5: 1813

JOHN MADDEN FOOTBALL '93

SNEAKY TIP: Ahoy tharl! Now this is the sort of cheat we like. Start a two player game as team mates and select either Atlanta or the Madden Greats. Before you kick off, call an audible and get all your players on the right hand side of the screen. Then do a minuscule kick and have player two start to run forward just before your boot meets leather, so that player two can scoop up the loose ball. This sneaky tactic gives your team possession of the ball, and was sent in by Paul Mackay from Cootamundra, NSW. Nice place, I once went there on a school excursion, many years ago.

THE LOST VIKINGS

LEVEL SELECT: Millions of readers have sent in pages of passwords for this rather smart game, but with this cheat from Leo Semau over in Wellington, New Zealand, passwords are a thing of the past! Simply hold down X, Y, B and A on the title screen.

FATAL FURY

PLAY OTHER CHARACTERS: If you are in the unfortunate position of actually owning this sad mockery of Street Fighter II, this cheat will probably interest you. Go to the Street Fight mode and press Down on control pad two. Apparently, this lets you select your fighter from the whole dodgy cast, but we couldn't test it because we have long since disposed of our copy of this shambles of a game.

CHOPLIFTER III

PASSWORDS: Below are passwords. Use them at your own risk.

Level 2: CDGGBVN

Level 3: WHTDFFN

Level 4: SHNLNTS

Tip of the Month

ROCK 'N' ROLL RACING

CHEATS: Here's a couple of juicy cheats for this noisy game, sent in by Edwin Piddington of Leura, NSW. The first cheat lets you select a new driver - Olaf from The Lost Vikings, no less! This wandering Nordic goat herder can be found by holding down the L, R and Select buttons while you scroll through the other drivers. Eventually his cheery face will appear. The second cheat allows you to race on the forbidden Inferno planet, previously accessible only after completing all the other races. Buy your car and go to change planet. Just like the above cheat, hold down the L, R and Select buttons whilst going through the various planets, and it will come up.

ACTION REPLAY CODES

GAME BOY ACTION REPLAY CODES

THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK

Below are just some of the many codes that we received from Mark Burns of Leeton, NSW.

- 0020 93DA - Unlimited energy for Luke.
- 0020 94DA - Unlimited energy for tauntaun.
- 0020 95DA - Unlimited Force power.
- 0001 96DA - Activate high jump.
- 0001 97DA - Activate levitation.
- 0001 98DA - Enhanced sabre power.
- 0001 99DA - Activate graphic eye.
- 0001 9ADA - Run faster.

ADDAMS FAMILY

These few codes were provided by Raymond Mancy of Hattonvale, Queensland.

ALIEN 3

Also from Raymond is this code.

- 0103 49C3 - Infinite lives.

NES ACTION REPLAY CODES

Peter Hajje of Dee Why, NSW, was the only reader to send in any NES Action Replay codes that were worth printing in this month's NHS pages. He also included a graphic representation (that means a drawing, dummies) of what might happen to Sonic if he found himself in a Mario game by mistake. Not a pretty sight, so we've censored it in the name of good taste. (Yes, some of us here at NMS actually do have some!)

CHIP 'N' DALE RESCUE RANGERS

- 0002 1018 - Invulnerable to enemy attack.
- 0005 B682 - Infinite lives.

FLINTSTONES

- 0003 0803 - Unlimited energy for Fred.
- 0003 0502 - Unlimited lives for Fred.
- 0003 0BFF - Unlimited coins for Fred.

- 7E1E 4C1F - Slow motion.
- PEBBLE BEACH - US CART
- 7E1D 251F - Full power shots (as above).
- 7E1D 35XX - Wind speed (as above).
- 7E1E 251F - Slow motion.

MAJOR TITLE/IREM SKINS - US CART

- 7EBC EEXX - Wind speed (replace XX with 00 to FF for 0mph to 255mph).
- 7E81 6801 - Hole in one every shot.

SUPER GHOULS AND GHOSTS

Chris Hannam, of Tannum Sands in Qld, offers these codes for your favourite weapon in Capcom's graphically stunning game of the undead.

- 7E14 D301 - Flaming lance.
- 7E14 D304 - Crossbow.
- 7E14 D305 - Magic Crossbow.
- 7E14 D302 - Dagger.
- 7E14 D303 - Magic dagger.
- 7E14 D306 - Scythe.
- 7E14 D309 - Magic scythe.
- 7E14 D308 - Flame.
- 7E14 D30A - Axe.

- 7E14 D30B - Battle axe.
- 7E14 D30C - Tri-star.
- 7E14 D30D - Shiruken.
- 7E14 D30E - Magic bracelet.

ACTION REPLAY CODE COLLECTION OF THE MONTH!

THIS MONTH'S CODE OF THE MONTH WINS A COPY OF IMAGINEER'S WORLD CLASS RUGBY, COURTESY OF MATELIII

SHADOWRUN

These codes will increase to the maximum level the said characteristic. They were sent in by Scott Snelling of Greenbank, Queensland, who wins this month's prize for all the effort he put into creating these codes. Good work!

- 7E3B FB14 - Body.
- 7E33 DEC8 - Infinite energy with 200 stamina.
- 7E1F 5E64 - Infinite energy for runner.
- 7E3B FD06 - Strength.

- 7E3C 0206 - Unarmed combat.

SPELLS

- 7E3C 0C06 - Freeze.
- 7E3C 0B06 - Summon Spirit.
- 7E3C 0A06 - Armour.
- 7E3C 0906 - Invisibility.
- 7E3C 0806 - Heal.
- 7E3C 0706 - Powerball.

When we first laid our eager mits on a copy of Super Bomberman and a Super Multitap, we went mad. Quite simply and utterly mad. The sheer pace of a four-player battle mode game had us in such rapture that the only thing heard in the NMS office for weeks were the exhilarating cries of "Get him! GET HIM!!" or "Oh, $@%!!!"

Fortunately, we have learnt to limit our bomb-blasting activities and we are now able to present a complete guide to this brilliant game. Prepare to be bombed into oblivion!

NMS reviewed Super Bomberman in our November '93 issue (NMS #8) and we rated it at 93%.

SUPER BOMBERMAN™

Special thanks go out to Paul Vallejo, Nathan Hughes, Raamon Vaccaro and every one else who sent in Bomberman tips and passwords.

DEFEATING THE GUARDIANS

There are six evil bosses waiting to kill, crush and destroy your Bomberman, and these are the best tactics to use against the scum!

The Rock Smasher

This boss can be defeated by using the Kamikaze technique outlined above, or failing that, get behind him and lay bombs in his path. You need to hit him about 10 times to put a stop to his ground-pounding tomfoolery.

The Clown Face

No jolly circus antics here, this guy means business! You can damage him substantially early on with the Kamikaze technique, but then you'll have to use your wits. Plant bombs next to him, and get to the edge of the screen. When an exploding bomb hits him, he will shoot stars at you, so beware.

BURNING KAMIKAZE DEATH MISSION!

We told you about this tip a few months back, but it's so useful we want to tell you again! At the start of a normal mode game, drop a bomb and stand next to it, pressing the A button as fast as you can. When the first bomb explodes, you will immediately drop another one which will instantly explode and so forth. Your Bomberman won't be killed, because at the start of the game you are flashing and invincible for about 15 seconds. In this time you can run around the mazes leaving a trail of destruction in your wake, but be sure to stop dropping bombs before your invincibility runs out! In this way you can destroy a lot of enemies and soft blocks in a short period of time, thus making it easier to finish the level. This tactic can also be used on some of the bosses, too.

Level 3-8

Grappling Robot

The safest way here is to walk up and drop a bomb in front of the rails. Don't bother with attacking the things he launches, if you destroy one, more will be launched.

Level 4-8

Boxing Robot

Bombs don't hurt this shiny dude, the only way to beat him is to knock him into the electric fence with a strategically placed bomb. Collect the power-ups he drops to make your job easier.

Level 5-8

Evil Bomberman

After battling the other BomberMen, the Supreme Evil Bomberman appears. It only takes about five hits to dispose of him, but he's smarter than the others. Try to corner him with his bombs and yours, but if you fail, try the Kamikaze technique.

Robot Spider

The final boss has a two stage attack pattern. It first appears as a bomb-lobbing spider and you can only damage it by hitting its eye when it lowers its shield. After six hits it disintegrates and the evil Dr. Diamond appears. He throws skulls all over the screen, and the only way to defeat him is to punch bombs onto his craft. If you don't have the ability to punch bombs, just try to survive until he throws a punching icon at you. After several successful hits, you've won the game!

ACTION REPLAY BOMBERCODES!

Here's the most comprehensive list of Action Replay codes for Bomberman you'll find outside Datel! They were sent in by Paul Vallejo, of Castle Hill in NSW.

- 7E0D B341 - Player two starts with remote and maximum explosion.

SUPER MARIO BROS.

Who's the greatest video game star of them all? It's Mario, of course! This was his first scrolling adventure on the NES and even today it provides a tough challenge.

◀ Having trouble getting through to world eight? Try one of these tasty warps!

WARP ZONES

There is a warp leading to each world in Super Mario Bros. By choosing the right path, Mario's journey can be shortened immensely.

▶ This nasty little git does his best to impede your progress, lobbing hammer after hammer at you. He's no match for the mighty Mario!

WARP ZONE ONE

The first warp zone is accessed through World 1-2. When you come to the last lift in the underground section, stay on it as it rises, then jump off when you can make it onto the roof. Run along the roof and you'll find a room with three pipes. Welcome to the Warp Zone! From here you can choose to be taken to either World Two, Three or Four.

▶ Your chance for victory comes when Bowser does his stomping up and down act. Run under the lard-butt and hit the drawbridge eraser button. Bowser plummets to his doom, then Mario turns evil and rules Mario Land with an iron fist, crushing all in his way!

▶ Finally, Mario's search has come to an end, before him stands (actually, it looks like he's squatting) the evil, twisted Bowser!

▶ Bowser has an unlimited supply of hammers which he throws at you in vast quantities. Wait for a break, then run under and stand next to the mean greenie.

WARP ZONE TWO

The second Warp Zone is found in World 4-2 and requires a some care to get into. You will come across a group of ? blocks, a lift and a platform three blocks wide to the right of the lift. Position Mario directly below the third block on the right of this platform and jump. A solid block will be revealed. Another hidden block is diagonally to the left and above the first block, knock it too. Get Mario on this block and jump to hit the left hand block of the platform, this will reveal a vine. There is also a hidden block directly below the vine and another to the left. Use these to get up to the vine and climb up it. Run right and the Warp Zone will offer you the choice of Worlds Six, Seven and Eight.

WARP ZONE THREE

This warp is also found in World 4-2 and it can be found in the same manner as Warp Zone One. It only takes you to World Five.

▶ No he doesn't! He rescues the Princess and they all live happily ever after, or until Super Mario Bros 2...

SUPER MARIO BROS. 2

Originally, this game was to be titled "Doki Doki Panic", but Nintendo decided to replace the characters with Mario and his pals. And thus Super Mario Bros. 2 was born.

▲ Princess vs Wart. Catch the veggies that pop out of the spouts and lob them at Wart when his gob is open, while avoiding his burp bubbles.

WARP 1-3

The first warp is pretty easy to find. Get the potion that is near the small log bridge and take it to the vase on the far right. Use it and, when in negative land, climb into the vase and be taken to World Four.

▼ Oooh, you've made him mad now! Mind you, he won't be able to retaliate, for it's off to the pit-of-dead-Warts for him!

WARP 3-1

At the second waterfall, drop down and you will find a secret cave filled with veggies. The tenth veggie along is a potion, take it to the vase on the right, use it and enter the vase to be taken to World Five.

▲ Time to escape! Pull out the cork in the final jar and a swarm of Wart's former minions come out.

▲ Then it's off to the victory celebration and feast. Hooray for Mario! Hooray for Princess! (For she did all the work in this game!) Hooray for everything!

WARP 4-2

After going through the door, head left until you find a potion in the ground. Carry it to the right, along the backs of the whales, until you come across a vase. Entering this vase while in negative land warps you to World Six

WARP 6-3

There is a very clever shortcut in this level. When you come up the ladder, go left into the quicksand by the wall. Let yourself sink low enough so you can get under the wall, but keep pushing left and pressing jump continuously to stop yourself sinking. When you get out, go into the door and you will be taken near to the end of the level.

SUPER MARIO BROS. 3

Regarded by many as the best game on the NES, SMB3 simply oozes playability and even rivals Super Mario World as the greatest platform game of all time!

▲ The beginning of the last level sees Mario trying to avoid the burning laser death rays dealt out by the stone statues. Spooky!

▲ One last lava pit to negotiate before the final showdown. For your convenience, please keep to the left on escalators and avoid the fireballs on shopping level three.

▲ "OK Bowser, do your worst!"

THE WARP WHISTLES

The mystic Whistles of Warping are hidden throughout the game. Collect all three and you'll be able to go anywhere you want!

Use a Warp Whistle on the map screen and you'll be whisked off to World 9, the Warp Zone. The area of the Warp Zone that you end up in depends on which world you used the Whistle in. To get straight to World Eight, use a second whistle while in the Warp Zone.

FIRST WHISTLE

As you reach the end of level 1-3, look out for a group of five platforms sitting in mid-air. Get onto the middle one and crouch down until you fall through. Now simply finish the level and enter the Mushroom House where Toad will give you the first whistle.

▲ "Why you little... Come 'ere runt! Prepare to taste my fury!"

THIRD WHISTLE

The third and final whistle is in World Two. To get it, you have to defeat the Hammer Brothers and get the hammer. Make your way to the top right hand corner and destroy the boulder blocking your path, then fight another pair of Hammer Brothers to liberate the whistle.

SECOND WHISTLE

The second warp whistle is in World One at the Boom Boom house, but you're going to need the Raccoon suit to get to it. At the end of the level you come across a Dry Bones Koopa; stomp it, but don't go out the door. Instead, fly up and to the right and, when you can't go up any further, press up and voila - you're in the whistle room.

▲ The endings are different depending on what Mario is dressed in when he kicks Bowser's butt.

▲ "You're very stupid, aren't you..." said Mario as he tricked Bowser into smashing a hole in the floor, through which the big ugly green dude would soon fall.

Without a doubt, Ocean's biggest and best Super NES game to date has been Jurassic Park. We like it so much, in fact, that it gets a NMS rating of 91%. Far superior to Sega's shabby platform-based effort, the Super NES version makes an attempt to follow the story line of the book and film, while introducing new gameplay elements to the Super NES. And it's big. With no passwords or battery back-up, getting off the island is a major task.

NMS tip-meisters Aaron Rudgley and Damon Tuck went on an expedition to Jurassic Park and, after being pursued by flocks of 'raptors and the odd hungry T-Rex, returned, barely alive, with these tips for other adventurers trapped in Jurassic Park.

Jurassic Park

DINO DEATH-DEALING DEVICES

Dr Grant carries his trusty 10,000 volt cattle prod everywhere he goes, but there are several more powerful weapons left lying around the park. There are only two weapons worth carrying, though; the missile launcher and the bolas. Use missiles on any 'raptors or dilophosaurus that give you aggro in the park, but save the bolas for multiple enemies in the 3D sections. A well-aimed shot with the bolas can take out two or three dinos before you get close enough to wake them up.

You will, however, need the nerve gas bomb found in the north utility shed to destroy the 'raptor nests, and the tranquillizer darts come in handy when you face the tyrannosaurus.

NO WAY OUT!

OK, so you just entered Jurassic Park, you don't know where to go, there are large hungry dinos lurking in the greenery and you can't find your mummy. Cheer up, things could be worse. (Well, they do get worse later on in the game, but don't worry about that yet.)

Your main priority is to re-boot the park computer and to do this, you need to get the power back on. The generator is located in the Nublar utility shed, directly below your starting point. With the power on, you can now use the lifts in all the buildings.

You then have to go to the beach utility shed in the south-west corner of the park, to find Denis Nedry's access card. With this in your possession, head for the visitor centre and get onto the roof, where John Hammond has left his access card. (Senile old fool!) Now, go down to the first floor and find the computer terminal from which you can re-boot the system.

DON'T TALK TO THESE ANIMALS!

There are seven species of dinosaurs that call Jurassic Park home and they are all more than willing to maim or eat Dr Grant.

COMPSOGNATHUS

These little dudes weren't in the film but they were in Michael Crichton's novel. They scamper around, generally making a nuisance of themselves, but you only have to let off a zap or two from the cattle prod to send them running for cover.

PACHYCEPHALOSAURUS

The Pachy-thingies reside deep in the forests and generally mind their own business. If you get too close to them, they'll turn and charge you, so shoot them, anyway.

GALLIMIMUS

Despite what Tim says, these high-speed dinos stampede whether or not you shoot at them. They won't actually attack you, so just wait for them to move along before crossing their path.

VELOCIRAPTOR

More dangerous than the Tyrannosaurus, if only because there are so many of them. The 'raptors are usually found in groups of two or three and attack on sight. You can't out run them and only the most powerful weapons will put them to sleep permanently.

DILOPHOSAUR

Four-foot frilled-neck lizards with an attitude. They don't actively pursue you, but if you get close, they hop around and spit great green gobs of greasy, grimy goo at you.

TRICERATOPS

The Triceratops are four-legged freight trains that don't stop for anything, especially not for some palaeontologist babbling on about blood samples, or whatever!

TYRANNOSAURUS REX

The most well-known dino of all time (probably), simply because they look so damn mean. And, at more than three times the height of a very tall man and with lots of very big, sharp teeth, it's no wonder. There isn't much you can do to stop them, though tranquillizer darts will slow them down. If you hear their footsteps (and believe us, you will!) run as fast as you can.

PREHISTORIC DRAGONFLY

These nasty bugs seem to appear out of nowhere and won't leave you alone until they're dead. Cattle prods are a particularly satisfying way of destroying them!

- A: Park Gate
- B: Visitor's Centre
- C: Raptor Pen (north entrance)
- D: Supply Port (east)
- E: North Utility Shed
- F: Beach Utility Shed
- G: Helipad
- H: Nublar Utility Shed
- I: Raptor Pen (east entrance)

BRIDGES & GATES

Jurassic Park, being a "zoo" of sorts, obviously has many fences separating the inmates from each other, as well as from the visitors. The gates to the dino pens are electrified and they are of the self-closing variety, so getting through them requires some quick footwork. Stand next to the gate mechanism and unleash the fury of your cattle prod upon them, then dash through before you get squished and fried.

Jurassic Park is divided in parts by canals and streams and, as we all know, people can't walk on water, especially portly people such as Dr Grant. The canal down by the Nublar utility shed can be crossed in a single bound, just make sure you time it right. The wider bodies of water, however, can only be crossed by using the drawbridges. To make the drawbridges extend across the water, zap their mechanism as you did with the gates. If the mechanism is out of reach across the water, shoot it with a projectile.

POACHED OR SCRAMBLED?

The 'raptors in

Jurassic Park are running amock! Just about every clump of bushes harbours a set of teeth and claws, waiting for you to stray off the path. So what can Dr Grant do to rid the island of these hideous eating machines? Kill 'em in the cradle! Or, more specifically, collect all their eggs and hold the world's biggest breakfast!

There is a total of 18 raptor eggs scattered throughout Jurassic Park, and here's a guide to their locations.

- One in the north-west forest.
- One behind the northern utility shed.
- One behind the visitor centre.
- Three in the south-west forest.
- Two in the east forest.
- One on Mt. Hammond.
- One at the top of the eastern mountain range.
- One hidden in the south-east forest.
- One below the eastern mountains.
- One on top of Mt. Nublar.
- One in trees forest below Mt. Nublar.
- One on the visitor centre roof.
- One on the west side of the eastern mountain range.
- One on the roof of the ship.
- One on the east side of the eastern mountain range, below the east forest.

ACCESS GRANTED

You start the game with freedom to explore almost all of Jurassic Park, but all the important areas are locked away, inaccessible to anyone without the correct security pass card. There are 13 access cards in total and here is the location of all of them.

JOHN HAMMOND'S - Top left on the roof of the visitor centre.

ELLIE SATLER'S - On sublevel 3 of the ship.

ALAN GRANT'S - Ground floor of the visitor centre. You need the night vision glasses.

DR WU'S - On sublevel 1 of the ship.

ANOTHER CHANCE TO ENTER THE BRILLIANT CLAYFIGHTER COMPETITION AND WIN A TRIP OVERSEAS TO VISIT OCEAN AND INTERPLAY TO SEE HOW VIDEO GAMES ARE MADE!

Oh, and there's the usual wicked NMS reviews, cheats (including pt.2 of our Jurassic Park players guide), totally fat poster and loads more. It's brilliant - honest!

The new-look NES will be available in a couple of months. As you can see from the size of the console compared to the natty Super NES-style joypad, the new NES certainly lives up to its industry nickname of "The Game Boy on Steroids." Thankfully, it won't be that awful bronze-gold colour that was available overseas. It will be priced from around $99.

DON'T MISS IT!
